Suspension Of Ship Strike Proposed By Government

Presidential Panel Would Offer Solution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg proposed Thursday that striking maritime unions agree to halt their walkout for 60 days and submit their dispute with shipowners to a three-man presidential committee for solution.

Goldberg asked both sides in the week-old strike to accept the peace step in the public interest.

He said the port tieup was having an adverse effect on the nation's foreign commerce and trade and dollar balances.

"If this stoppage continues there will be serious shortages of vital industrial and consumer goods," Goldberg wired the shipowners and seagoing unions involved.

Negotiations Stalmated

The cabinet officer said that federal mediators reported that negotiations were deadlocked.

He said if both sides agree, he will recommend that President Kennedy name a "maritime labor committee" to look into the dispute and make settlement recommendations.

He set a deadline of 1 p.m. EDT Saturday for the replies to reach him in Washington so he could report to Kennedy.

No answer was expected from either side before Friday.

A spokesman for the National Maritime Union (NMU), biggest of the five involved, said in New York his union had not yet received Goldberg's telegram and would have no statement until Friday.

45 Days To Investigate

Robert H. Moore, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said in New York mediators would try to contact the unions but that because of the hour immediate replies might not be forthcoming.

Goldberg said the group would have 45 days to investigate the controversy and report its findings. The shipowners and unions would then have 15 days to negotiate on the basis of the report.

The labor secretary said union members would resume work and shipping companies would resume operations during the "cooling off" period. Retroactive wage increases and other economic benefits would be provided back to the June 15 contract expiration date.

Laos Princes Sign Agreement

Princes Check Laos Unity Task To King

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — The three princes of Laos' warring factions adjourned their summit meeting Thursday by proclaiming a need for national unity. But they checked to King Savang Vathana the task of choosing a new government to bring peace to the nation.

Their agreement was just enough to prevent the conference from ending in failure. The essential Laotian deadlock was left intact, with its threat of new East-West conflict in Southeast Asia.

Instead of working out a coalition government as had been expected, the princes said the monarch would distribute the ministerial posts. Their only stipulation was that all three factions be represented.

The king by tradition stays out of politics in Laos. In an effort to remove his nation from the cold war, the king has tried to get the factions together.

Generally, however, he has favored Prince Boun Oum, premier of the government backed by the West. It was not known how he would react to pressure from the other two sides.

They were represented here by Prince Souvanna Phouma, a self-styled neutralist recognized as legal premier by the Communists, and Souvanna's half-brother and ally, Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels.

In Geneva, where delegates from 13 other nations have been waiting all week for a decision from the princes, the international conference decided to recess until Monday. There was no indication when Laos would have a delegation to represent it at the Palace of Nations.

The important points of the agreement signed by the three princes represented concessions by Boun Oum. In going directly to the king for help in forming a new government, the princes bypassed the pro-Western Parliament, where Boun Oum controls 32 of the 59 seats.

Adlai Doesn't Believe Castro Gaining Ground

RAMEY AIR FORCE BASE, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Ambassador Adlai Stevenson said Thursday during a brief stop en route to Washington he did not believe Fidel Castro was gaining ground in South America despite a rising tide of discontent.

He said he had found a great deal of respect for the Cuban revolution as far as social reforms go but "little support for Communism."

Stevenson said that on his just completed tour of 10 South American countries he found "an official awareness of the need for economic and social reform, progress, and (of) the growing menace of communism."

Asked at a news conference at the Ramey officers club if he thought Castro was gaining ground he said: "No, I wouldn't say he was."

Stevenson disclosed that some countries have asked postponement of the projected Montevideo Conference of hemisphere economic and finance ministers because organizational planning efforts are not advanced enough.

Church School Loan Provision Added To Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee Thursday added federal loans for church schools to a bill which would extend the National Defense Education Act.

The maneuver is part of the strategy to push an $850-million-a-year federal aid to education bill through Congress.

That bill provides no grants for parochial schools, and Democratic leaders hope to placate Roman Catholic leaders by including loans for these schools in the separate national defense education bill.

The Senate has passed the general aid to education bill. But the House Rules Committee has refused to let it reach the floor of the House until the national defense education bill—with a provision for Catholic schools—is ready.

Thursday's Senate action was almost duplicated in the House, where the Education Committee is working on the national defense education bill.

The Senate provision, covering parochial and all other private schools, would provide 40-year, low-interest loans aggregating $125 million a year during the next three years for construction of classrooms used only for teaching science, mathematics, modern foreign languages and physical fitness.

The subcommittee reached the $125-million figure because it is 15 per cent of the $750 million provided in the federal aid to education bill. Fifteen per cent of the nation's children attend private schools.

U.S. Denies Two Jets Shot Down By MIGs

TOKYO (UPI) — The U.S. Air Force Thursday denied Japanese press reports two Air Force jet fighters missing since Wednesday on a routine patrol had been shot down by Soviet MIGs.

The Japanese reports said the F100 jets were shot down by MIGs and that the action was seen on Japanese air defense radar screens.

Helicopter Rescues Scouts From Cliff

ASH MOUNTAIN, Calif. (UPI) —A group of southern California Explorer Scouts was evacuated safely by helicopter Thursday after being stranded on a cliff in Kings Canyon National Park for 24 hours.

The 11 scouts and their leader became trapped Wednesday after they lost the trail while hiking in the rugged Roaring River area near Cedar Grove. The cliff was about 2,000 feet above the valley floor.

Anderson Gets Navy Chief Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., 54, commander of the U. S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, was picked by President Kennedy Thursday to be chief of naval operations.

The President sent the nomination to the Senate, recommending Anderson as the successor for Adm. Arleigh A. Burke who finishes his third term as CNO on Aug. 1. Burke will retire from active duty.

As was the case when Burke was chosen in 1953 by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Anderson was promoted over a list of other flag officers senior in rank, service and, in most instances, age.

Also like Burke, Anderson will be relatively young when he takes over the top Navy command.

Anderson will be moved up to four-star rank when, as is almost certain, the Senate confirms the nomination.

Czech Diplomat Accused Of Espionage Goes Home

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Czechoslovakia's number 3 United Nations diplomat left for home Thursday under threat of deportation by the United States for trying to recruit spies in this country.

As the diplomat, Miroslav Nacvalac, counselor of the Czech U. N. delegation, flew back to Prague, his government criticized the United Nations for failure to defend him against the espionage charges leveled by the U.S. The criticism was contained in a note to the world organization.

Czechoslovakia said it had decided to recall Nacvalac as the only way of protecting his family "from the ill will which trampled under foot international commitments, law and decency."

Nacvalac, identified by the State Department as the head of Czech espionage activities in the United States, was accused of paying $1,700 to a Karel Hlasny, working with the FBI for information purported to be "top secret" U.S. intelligence.

Czechoslovakia countercharged that U. S. intelligence agents sought to recruit Nacvalac into espionage work for Washington.

The State Department Wednesday revoked Nacvalac's diplomatic status and declared him "an alien illegally in the United States."

Although Czechoslovakia protested that the U. S. action violated the agreement under which the U. N. headquarters was established as an extraterritorial enclave in New York, it agreed to recall Nacvalac. He had been scheduled to leave Wednesday morning, but bad weather forced a postponement until Thursday night.

GOP Version Beaten Down By Democrats

Measure Approved 235-178 Generally Follows JFK Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed Thursday night a multi-billion dollar housing and urban development bill generally following President Kennedy's recommendations.

The vote of passage was 235-178.

The Democratic bill would authorize spending for four years or longer and would expand housing and related activities.

Democrats twice beat down Republican efforts to substitute a version that would, in effect, extend existing housing programs only for a year.

The decisive roll call was a 215-197 vote against the GOP version.

Bill's Amount In Dispute

Many amendments that would have trimmed the size of the Democratic bill also were voted down, but the Democrats gave ground on one, which extensively curtails provisions for moderate income housing.

The exact amount of the bill was in dispute until the end. Democrats tagged it as a $4.9 billion bill, involving only $328 million in the budget for the year beginning July 1.

Republicans said it would ultimately take more than $9 billion from the Treasury.

In any case, the final legislation to go to the White House has yet to be written, since the Senate has passed its own version, priced by its sponsors at $6.1 billion. The differences will be ironed out at a conference, probably next week, and both houses will have another chance to vote on the result.

One Kennedy Plan Loser

Kennedy's plan to help moderate income families acquire houses by authorizing the Federal Housing Administration to insure no-down-payment, 40-year loans on homes costing up to $15,000 did not survive the legislative wars. The Senate voted 40-year loans, with down payments up to $555. In the House, Democratic managers, in a bid for support of conservatives in their own party, pushed through an amendment cutting the mortgage terms to 35 years and requiring 3 per cent down payments—up to $450.

But most of Kennedy's other proposals—and some features going beyond his suggestions — remained in the House bill.

JFK, Ikeda Call For A-Arm Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda called Thursday for an effective treaty outlawing nuclear weapons such as that which destroyed the Japanese leader's native town of Hiroshima.

In a final communique winding up three days of U.S. - Japanese talks here, Ikeda and Kennedy "recognized the urgent need for an agreement on a nuclear test ban accompanied by effective inspection and control measures."

The communique was issued without the presence of both men. Kennedy's sudden illness during the night forced the cancellation of his meeting with Ikeda in the morning.

Ikeda told a National Press Club lunch that the world's nuclear powers should work "patiently and diligently" to bring "this dreadful weapon" under control.

Theater Evacuated In Bethesda Blaze

BETHESDA, Md. (AP)—A near-capacity audience in the 500-seat Baronet Theater was evacuated without incident Thursday night after fire broke out in an adjoining restaurant.

The estimated 450 patrons filed quietly from the theater after they had been told that firemen had requested the evacuation.

The fire subsequently spread to the theater and also to a men's clothing store, all located in the 7400 block of Wisconsin Avenue, near the intersection with East-West Highways.

Firemen poured tons of water on the theater, built early in the century, and some fear was expressed that the weight of the water would cause the building to collapse.

The fire was believed to have started by the spilling of hot grease in the restaurant.

Khrushchev's Threats Given Rusk Brushoff

REPLIES TO KHRUSH—Secretary of State Dean Rusk tells a news conference in Washington yesterday that "the Soviets cannot extinguish the rights of the Western Powers in Berlin." It was a response to Khrushchev's threat that he would sign an East German peace treaty by the end of this year. (AP Photofax)

Renews Pledge Allies To Stand Firm In Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk Thursday accused Nikita Khrushchev of setting back the cause of world peace with what he called the Soviet premier's sabre-rattling over Berlin.

Rusk pledged anew that the United States and its allies would stand firmly by their commitment to protect the Communist-encircled city from Communist domination. He said they would resist all Soviet pressure.

In an indictment of what he apparently regarded as Soviet doubletalk, the secretary said the Russians repeatedly talk about peace and at the same time upset the obvious peace that already exists in Berlin.

Rusk gave no clue to any specific action the United States might take to meet Khrushchev's new threats. Only Wednesday night the Soviet premier declared categorically that he intended to sign a peace treaty with East Germany by the end of the year.

Pledges U.S. Protection

But Rusk, in a statement read at the opening of a news conference, declared that the United States would fight back against any move by Russia to oust the Allied powers from the old German capital.

"The United States and its allies have assumed certain basic obligations to protect the freedom of the people of West Berlin," he said.

"It is obvious that the United States could not accept the validity of any claim to extinguish its position in Berlin by unilateral action."

Rusk said the United States was consulting with its allies on the reply which it will make to the memorandum on Berlin handed by Khrushchev to President Kennedy at their Vienna meeting. It was in this memo that Khrushchev first renewed his Berlin threat.

On a related subject, Rusk stressed that this country will continue to strive for a nuclear test ban treaty at the Geneva talks.

But he said Soviet veto demands have given these hopes a serious setback. Without an effective treaty, he said, there inevitably is a question whether the United States should resume testing.

Tshombe Freed By Congolese; Will Cooperate

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (UPI) — The Central Congolese government Thursday freed Katanga President Moise Tshombe from imprisonment in an indication the troubled Congo is closer to peace and stability than at any time since its independence last year.

"Because of my release the end of the Congo crisis is in sight," Tshombe told newsmen. "We will work together to make this a great country."

The Congolese government freed Tshombe on a promise to end his secessionist activities, to send representatives to a forthcoming meeting of parliament here and to place his army under the leadership of Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, the Congolese army commander-in-chief.

Mobutu said he was sending Colonel Njoko, now commander of the Luluabourg garrison, to become commander of Katanga's army along with four members of Mobutu's staff. He also would take over Katanga's small air force.

Tshombe held a news conference at the home of Premier Joseph Ileo. He said he would return to his capital of Elisabethville in a few days.

Tshombe referred to his Leopoldville captors as "my Congolese brothers" and indicated several times he has agreed to bury his dream of Katanganese independence. One of the main motivating factors was believed to be the treason charge against him—one which could mean death.

The Central government apparently was writing off the charges of treason it lodged against Tshombe for trying to form Katanga Province into an independent state. Also indicated was the dismissal of a charge he helped murder ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba while Lumumba was in his country.

Brother Says Sheppard Has Cancer Symptoms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, one of the country's most famous prisoners who risked his life in a cancer research test, has symptoms of the disease his brother charged Thursday night.

Dr. Stephen Sheppard, who has stood solidly with his younger brother since the osteopath was accused and convicted of the bludgeon murder of his pregnant wife, disclosed in Cleveland his brother has a tumor.

Another brother Dr. Richard Sheppard, however, said he did not believe Dr. Sam has cancer. He said Sheppard has an enlargement of the lymph nodes in the breast area which could have been caused by any number of things.

Officials told United Press International that Sheppard had a swelling believed caused from a shoulder injury in a recent wrestling match.

Corrections Commissioner Maury Koblentz said the 37-year-old prisoner probably will be returned from the Marion Correctional Institution to Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus for extensive tests.

"There is no question that Dr. Sam has a tumor," Dr. Stephen Sheppard said.

However, Dr. Richard Sheppard another brother, said that he did not think the prisoner had cancer although he does have an enlargment of the lymph nodes in the breast area.

Dr. Richard Sheppard said the enlargment "could have resulted from inflamation, trauma or any number of courses which will be checked. . . There has been no diagnosis of cancer as far as I know."

Virus Attack Not Serious, Doctor Says

Temperature Back To Normal; Makes Appointments Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, virtually recovered from his back injury, was confined to bed Thursday by a virus infection.

He was reported feeling much better after some medication and three bowls of chicken broth, however, and planned a series of appointments for Friday.

He told aides he would be ready to see U. N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson at 10:30 a.m. Stevenson, flying back from his tour of South America to report to the President, will be accompanied to the White House by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Kennedy awoke during the night with a sore throat and a fever that reached 101.6 degrees before it began to subside. Within a few hours his temperature was back to a normal 98.6 degrees, where it remained the rest of the day.

In late afternoon Dr. Janet Travell, the White House physician who was called to the President's bedside at 1:30 a.m., told reporters: "I can assure you he is feeling very much better. He's got a lot of zip."

Anxious To Get Going

She quoted Kennedy as asking: "How much longer do I have to hang around here?"

She said she laughed and told him to stay in bed for the rest of the day.

Kennedy, sitting up in bed in pale blue pajamas, was reported by press secretary Pierre Salinger to have set up at least four appointments and to be planning to spend part of Friday in his office.

His only nonmedical visitors Thursday were Mrs. Kennedy, Salinger, and his appointments secretary, Kenneth O'Donnell. His daughter, Caroline, 3, was kept out of the sickroom.

Salinger briefed reporters shortly before Dr. Travell held her second news conference of the day. Salinger said Kennedy invited Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda in for a farewell call at 8:45 a.m., and then planned a series of other meetings running right up until lunch time.

Ikeda was to have had a wind-up session with Kennedy Thursday but that was cancelled, along with all of the President's other appointments.

Given Penicillin

Dr. Travell called Dr. Preston Wade from New York Thursday morning and he remained at the White House through the day. Dr. Wade is an orthopedics specialist who is familiar with Kennedy's back ailments.

Kennedy, awake from some time after midnight until about 6:30 a.m., dozed and napped during the day. Thursday afternoon he received a third shot of penicillin.

Dr. Travell said it is customary to continue penicillin injections for three to five days, although she told newsmen previously that the President's infection should run its course in two days.

"We think we have ruled out anything more serious than a one or two-day virus," she said.

A blood test showed Kennedy's white cell count was down from 13,000 to 11,200. Dr. Travell said about 8,000 would be normal, but she added that the President's condition was to be expected with this type of illness.

She called Kennedy's basic health excellent. As she had done in her previous meeting with newsmen, Dr. Travell minimized the role of the drug Kennedy has been taking to combat what she called a mild adrenal insufficiency.

Postage Hike Plan Shelved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's appeal for a five-cent rate on first-class letters and other postage increases was narrowly rejected Thursday by the House Post Office Committee.

Some lawmakers felt the action sounded the death knell for any postal hike this year. This would mean the federal budget would be deeper in the red next year than Kennedy forecast.

The committee approved a motion by Democratic Rep. James H. Morrison of Louisiana to table —and thus kill — the President's proposal to boost postage rates by $741 million a year.

The 10-9 vote crossed party lines. One member said more Democrats than Republicans voted to shelve Kennedy's plan.

U.S. Troops In Berlin Hold Surprise Alert

BERLIN (UPI) — The American military command in West Berlin called a surprise alert of its 5,000-man garrison Thursday to see how fast defense posts could be manned in event of a crisis.

Soldiers were roused from their beds at dawn and rushed in tanks and trucks from suburban barracks to key spots in the heart of the American sector of the city.

The French and British garrisons of 2,500 and 3,000 men did not take part in the alert.

The U.S. Army called Thursday's alert a "routine operational readiness exercise designed to test the mobility of the Berlin garrison in the streets of West Berlin."

Report Of Peronista Plot To Kill Stevenson Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two New York area newspapers said Thursday Argentine Peronista extremists plotted to kill Adlai E. Stevenson in Buenos Aires early this month and a U.S. Marine was wounded in an aftermath to the conspiracy. Officials denied both reports.

The State Department said a Marine was wounded in Buenos Aires June 10 but it had no known connection with the June 7 visit of Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

In Buenos Aires, the Argentine government and the U.S. Embassy both expressed astonishment at the plot report published by the Newark Star-Ledger and the New York World-Telegram and Sun. They denied also that the shooting of a Marine guard attached to the U.S. Embassy had any connection with Stevenson's visit during a goodwill tour of South America.

The newspaper accounts said Buenos Aires police were tipped a few days before Stevenson's arrival that Communists and supporters of ousted dictator Juan Peron had joined forces to stage anti-American demonstrations. Police were advised further that some extremist Peronistas would try to assassinate the American to embarrass the present government of President Arturo Frondizi.

The stories said quick police action forestalled the conspiracy and the plotters went into hiding. However, the articles said, on June 10 the Marine, James Lecinsky, was felled in downtown Buenos Aires by gunmen using machine pistols.

Navy To Dedicate Most Powerful U.S. Radio Station

CUTLER, Maine (UPI) — The United States' most powerful radio transmitting station will be officially dedicated by the Navy Friday.

The $70 million station has an output in excess of 2 million watts, which is 40 times more powerful than any transmitter in this country.

The station's mission is to provide adequate transmission to all units of the fleet in the north Atlantic, the Arctic Ocean and the Mediterranean.

Senate Passes Water Polution Control Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Thursday passed without opposition a water pollution control bill authorizing 440 million dollars in grants to the states to help build sewage plants.

The measure was cleared by voice vote and sent to conference with the House which has passed a bigger authorization. Senate debate ran about two hours.

Sponsors said that the Kennedy administration backed the legislation. They contended it would be highly valuable in efforts to improve the nation's water supply.

Both Senate and House versions of the legislation amount to a strengthening of a present program of 50 million dollars in annual construction grants.

"Never Made Decision," Eichmann Tells Judges

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Adolf Eichmann blandly asserted Thursday that he was just another paper-shuffler in the maze of Nazi bureaucracy who never made a decision of his own.

He looked straight at the three Israeli judges trying him for the murder of 6 million Jews and said:

"I was only concerned with... pure matters of transport. I never made a decision. I was known for this.'"

Testifying for the third day as the only witness for his defense, the one time SS lieutenant colonel who headed the Gestapo's Jewish affairs office said that even when he did do something, it was always on the orders of his superiors.

Eichmann claimed his officials had nothing to do with depriving Jews of their German citizenship so that their property could be confiscated. He said this was all organized by the interior ministry at a meeting called by either "minister Director Hering (first name not given) or councillor Globke."

This was the second day Eichmann referred to Dr. Hans Globke, now state secretary in West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's office and a former official in the Nazi interior ministry.

Eichmann did admit, though, that he drew up a plan to send all European Jews to a state of their own on the island of Madagascar off the African coast. He devised the plan, he said, as a "territorial final solution."

It was Heinrich Himmler, he said, who in April, 1943, ordered all remaining Jews to be "shipped to the east" — which meant the death camps—as fast "as humanly possible."

Mrs. Ikeda Visits Baltimore School

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Hayato Ikeda, wife of the Japanese prime minister, Thursday visited the women's college preparatory school attended during the past semester by her 18-year-old daughter, Sachiko.

Archibald R. Montgomery 3rd, headmaster of Garrison Forest School in nearby Garrison, said Mrs. Ikeda wanted to see the school and to thank him for courtesies shown her daughter.

The visit lasted about 25 minutes. Mrs. Ikeda, who does not speak English, was accompanied by an interpreter.

Three daughters of the Prime Minister were in the party: Sachiko; Noriko, 21, who attended Goucher College in suburban Towson for about three months last fall before withdrawing to study interior decorating in New York, and Mrs. Shimichi Kondo, wife of a Tokyo business man.

The governor was asked to appoint the committee in a resolution passed at the 90-day session of the General Assembly.

Tawes named Arthur W. Machen Jr. of Baltimore as chairman of the committee.

Other committee members are: Alexander Harvey II, Norman W. Wood, Edward O. Clarke, James H. Norris Jr., Andre W. Brewster, Howard E. DeMuth and Truman T. Semans, all of Baltimore, and R. Rossiter Rever of Annapolis and Alfred Burka of Somerset, Montgomery County.

Radio Astronomist Claims Moon Smooth

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—The moon is smooth, a radio astronomist told the American Institute of Electrical Engineers Thursday.

The moon is not full of craters, as science-fiction writers largely picture it, Thomas Gold of Cornell University said in a talk on radio investigations of the surface.

Ninety five per cent of the surface undulates very slightly, Gold said. The other five per cent is very rough, he added.

Miners Charge Fund's Officials Lax In Collection Of Royalties

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — About 400 pensioned coal miners, meeting here, asserted that "laxity by officials of the Anthracite Health and Welfare Fund in not collecting royalties on anthracite mined is largely responsible for delay in pension payments."

Charles Nedd, chairman of the Panther Valley Pensioned Miners Protest Committee, said the pensioned miners believe enforcement of United Mine Workers regulations governing the collection of a 70-cent royalty on each ton of coal produced is the responsibility of those in charge of the fund.

Officials of the UMW, which maintains the fund, say that delinquency of coal companies in making royalty payments is to blame for arrearage in pension installments.

The states of the United States have an average area of more than 63 thousand square miles.

Petition Perjury Action May Be Taken

BALTIMORE (AP)—A top state legal officer believes several referendum petition forms filed against a bill broadening the powers of Baltimore's new Municipal Court "are good grounds" for prosecution on perjury charges.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph S. Kaufman made the statement Thursday after the Baltimore Police Department had completed hand-writing tests on five of the forms.

The investigation, Kaufman said, showed many signatures on the forms "are written in the same handwriting." He said they would be turned over the Baltimore state's attorney office for possible prosecution for perjury.

"We think they (the petition forms) are good grounds for prosecution for perjury," Kaufman said. "Any final decision about prosecution is of course, up to the office of the state's attorney."

Kaufman said he believed the targets for prosecution should be the persons who signed the affidavits at the bottom of each form, certifying that all the names on each form were properly registered voters.

The deputy attorney general would not release any names concerned in the case, but the forms involved reportedly were circulated in Anne Arundel County.

Earlier, Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan refused to permit photographing of the questionable petition forms because some "innocent persons" may be injured by the publicity.

Finan also ruled there were not sufficient valid signatures appearing on the Municipal Court and savings and loan petitions to require a referendum in 1962.

The petitions against them were delivered to Annapolis May 31 by Northwest Baltimore Democratic leader James H. (Jack) Pollack. The action subsequently prompted the recall of legislators to Annapolis for a one-day special session.

The special session re-enacted both the court bill and the savings and loan regulatory measure. Afterwards, Pollack threatened court action on the re-enacted bills, charging the special session was designed to circumvent the people's' right to referendum.

Seven-Member Savings, Loan Board Named

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Appointments to a seven-member Board of Buildings, Savings and Loan Association advisors were announced Thursday by the governor's office.

The board, which will advise the Department of Assessments and Taxation on matters pertaining to the loan associations, was created by the special emergency session of the General Assembly June 9.

Fred W. Kuethe of Glen Burnie, J. H. L. Trautfelter of Baltimore, Charles E. Orth of Baltimore and John W. T. Webb of Salisbury were appointed to four-year terms ending May 31, 1965.

Gov. Tawes selected J. Grason Luttrell of Baltimore, T. Hammond Welsh Sr. of Hyattsville and F. Ross Myers of Frederick for terms ending May 31, 1963.

The board elects its own chairman.

The advisory board was created by bill which brought Maryland in line with 48 other states regulating the savings and loan associations. Only Alaska has no state regulation of the industry.

The emergency measure placed regulations of the state's $1.5 billion savings and loan industry under the Department of Assessments and Taxation rather than under a separate agency as called for in the original legislation passed during the regular 90-day session of the Legislature.

People of the African nation of Angola have this optimistic saying: "There is always something green in the woods and always something good in the hearts of men."

Owners Of 20 "Block" Clubs Subpoenaed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Twenty nightclub operators from Baltimore's amusement area known as the Block were subpoenaed Thursday to appear in court to explain why they refused to yield their financial records to the grand jury.

Asst. State's Atty. E. Thomas Maxwell Jr. said the club owners are scheduled to appear before Judge Joseph L. Carter of the Baltimore Supreme Bench at 10 a.m. Friday.

The nightclub owners refused to comply with a grand jury order Wednesday to surrender their business and tax records. They charged the jury with "witch-hunting," and said they would take the issue to court if necessary.

Four other clubs complied with the order and three others promised to do so.

The grand jury, assisted by the office of the State's attorney, has quizzed more than 60 witnesses, including female entertainers and nightclub employes, in its investigation of rackets and violence in the city.

Among the club owners submitting financial records to the grand jury was Edward L. Corbi, whose report May 9 of an assassination attempt on him at his home triggered the current investigation.

Maxwell said Judge Carter could order the 20 club owners to yield their records. If they ignore that order, contempt of court citations will be sought against them, he said.

Meanwhile, Thomas F. McNulty, chairman of the city's Liquor Board, said his agency is prepared to take action against license holders who refuse to cooperate with the grand jury's investigation.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married almost a year and we have our little squabbles but nothing serious. Our biggest arguments are about his shaving.

George has a very tough beard. He shaves every morning about 7 a.m. If we have plans for the evening his beard is very dark by 6 p.m. and he should shave again if he's going to look presentable.

He says he wouldn't shave twice in one day for the Queen of Sheba and begs me to please leave him alone. It is very embarrassing for me to go with a man who looks so ill-groomed and a few times I have even cried about it. This is the only cloud in an otherwise sunny marriage. Is it worth fighting about?—IONE

DEAR IONE: Your husband should agree to shave twice for very special occasions. It won't kill him. On the not-so-special occasions, let him use a little talcum powder to lighten the whiskers. It won't kill YOU.

And now — to all advertising account executives, public relations people, manufacturers and what have you. I will not mention the name of any blade, electric razor, lather, lotion, powder or cream in this column, so please don't send me literature or samples. Thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's mother lives a short distance from our home and she spends a great deal of time with us.

My father was a clergyman and we were brought up to believe prejudice was un-godlike and that people should be judged in terms of their worth as human beings. We were never permitted to call people of certain races by slang terms.

My mother-in-law uses these slang terms freely and our three-year-old daughter is picking them up. Some of these words go through me like a knife. I hate to sit silent and let our young daughter adopt these words as part of her vocabulary. Can you help me?—DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Tell your mother-in-law privately that you would appreciate it if she would not use certain words in your child's presence. Be specific. If she ignores your request, correct her on the spot — gently but firmly. Simply say: "Mother, but we don't use that kind of language in OUR family."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been elected by four girls to write this letter. We are all 15 years of age and not employed.

A certain girl in our crowd borrows dimes and quarters and "forgets" to pay us back.

We are all from families that get along all right financially. Nobody is rich and nobody is poor, but we resent being suckers. She owes me $1.10, and each of the other girls about 80c. Should we send her a bill in the mail or what?—BROKE FOUR

DEAR BROKE: Why hide behind a four cent stamp? If she owes you money, speak up and tell her the very next time she puts the bite on you.

Explain that her credit rating has hit bottom and until she pays what she owes she can't get any more loans. The only way to deal with moochers is to match their nerve with frankness.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HEART-SICK: No, it is not necessary to return the baby gifts. If, in a couple of years you don't have a little one to fill the empty crib, send the gifts to a welfare agency.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONCERNED MOTHER: You've got plenty to be concerned about. Get a court order prohibiting him from visiting the children.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Happy Apple Peppermint Crunch

½ cup crushed peppermint stick candy or after dinner mints
2 cups canned apple sauce
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine candy and apple sauce; chill in refrigerator several hours, or overnight. Place vanilla ice cream in individual serving dishes; top with the sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Peaches For Perfection

Just about any time of the day is a good time for peaches. Starting with breakfast, serve them as the morning fruit alone or as a go-with for cold or hot cereals. They're a good addition, too, to hot rolls and muffins, or other hotbreads.

Serve peaches at lunchtime, too. They're a most pleasing salad item—combined with other fruits, cottage cheese, with cabbage in a cole slaw, or even with fish or poultry in a salad preparation. Serve peaches with cream or with ice cream for desserts, or bake them in pies, tarts, cobblers, shortcakes, pastries, and other delectable concoctions.

Pre-dinner fruit cocktails and main dish garnishes, as well as desserts are other good ways to use the canned peaches. One of the most attractive garnishes for a roast, ham, or turkey is glazed peaches. Broiled peach halves are also excellent with the main dish, and if you like may be used with a tasty fish or poultry salad preparation filling.

Here's a delicious Peach Cobbler suggested by U.S. Department of Agriculture to serve for desserts either at luncheon or dinner:

1½ cups canned peaches
⅔ cup peach juice or syrup
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Pinch of salt
Butter or margarine
Biscuit dough

Mix all ingredients except the dough. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Turn into a baking pan. Cover with rolled dough, slashed in several places to let steam escape, or cover with rounds of dough. Bake at 425°F. (hot oven) until browned — about 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Gourmet's Breast Of Chicken

4 medium chicken breasts
Dash pepper and salt
4 oz. Swiss cheese (sliced)
1 egg plus 1 tblsp. water
1 c. crushed potato chips
2 tblsp. butter
½ tsp. Rosemary

Remove bone from chicken. Pound with meat hammer until flat. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Place cheese in center, putting in just enough so chicken will fold over cheese and can be fastened with skewers. Beat egg and water with fork. Dip stuffed chicken breasts in beaten egg and then roll in potato chips. Place in greased baking pan. Mix Rosemary in butter and place evenly on top of each breast. Bake 30-40 minutes at 375° until tender. Cover for first half of baking time. By Weldon Goodwin.

This Week In Congress

by Rep. Charles Mathias

Everyone on the Eastern seaboard of the United States should be aware of the startling changes that are taking place in America in the next forty years. For instance, Americans will need an area the size of the entire State of Indiana for the cities that are built in that time. We shall use more space for metropolitan development between 1961 and 2000 than we have used since the first permanent settlement at Jamestown in 1607. These were some of the startling facts which I discussed in the speech on the Floor of the House of Representatives on June 15th in which I called the attention of the Congress to the urgent necessity for planning for this revolutionary change in the landscape of America. I entitled my remarks "Ill Fares The Land" remembering Oliver Goldsmith's famous lines, "Ill Fares the Land to hastening ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

Perhaps the most interesting local news in the 6th District this week is the announcement by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of its plans to build a huge Environmental Health research center on a 690 acre site near Rockville in Montgomery County. The facility would deal with problems related to environmental health such as the effects of air and water pollution, radiation and chemicals on human beings. Expansion of existing PHS facilities for such studies has been considered for several years.

The site was chosen over five other sites in the Washington area. When the first stage of building is finished in 1965, the Center will employ an estimated 1600 persons. In the three years following, the Department speculates that employment may rise as high as 4000.

The buildings of the first stage will cost around $35 million. I hope that such substantial construction will go a long way to alleviate unemployment in this area. Congress is presently considering legislation which will authorize plans to be drawn and models to be constructed, so that full scale building can proceed. I am doing all I can to expedite this legislation.

The purpose of the Center will be to investigate the effects of environment and occupation on health. Air pollution and water pollution will be among the environmental hazards investigated. The center will also make tests on milk and various foods to find out the effects on humans of certain impurities in foods and the consequences of using insecticides and preservatives.

I commented on the Floor of the House on June 12 with regard to the Metropolitan Police Force stating that on May 17, 18, and 19 hearings were held by a Subcommittee of the House District Committee to determine what immediate legislative action might be taken by the Congress in order to provide emergency relief for the citizens of the Nation's Capital from the increase in violent crime which has been the subject of so much publicity in recent weeks. I would like to make it clear that, in my opinion, the bill before the House today, H. R. 7218, is a step in the right direction to the solution to this problem.

Favorable consideration of this bill should have the effect of lowering the crime rate in the District of Columbia. It is designed to prevent crime through better law enforcement that will have the effect of apprehending and removing known offenders from society.

The reasons for crime are highly complex and, to a great degree, unknown. Until such time as the criminologists, doctors, judges, law enforcement officers, social workers, legislators, and the entire citizenry know exactly what causes crime, an overall solution to this problem is unobtainable. We do know that a high rate of crime is usually connected with certain symptoms that are evident in the society in the District of Columbia. Poor living conditions affect the rate of crime. Unemployment affects the rate of crime. Low wages affect the rate of crime. Large migrations of persons unaccustomed to life in a large city and unaware of the difficulties and temptations that they will face there affect the rate of crime. We also know that crime is one of the most expensive cancers that a society may have. It is not only expensive to those who suffer directly from criminal actions but to the public at large in maintaining large police forces and prisons. There is also the incalculable loss of the talents, energies, and abilities of those people who turn to crime, instead of contributing to society.

The bill before us today, H. R. 7218, is to increase the authorized strength of the Metropolitan Police Force from 2734 to 3,000 police officers. This bill aims to provide one of the available deterrents to crime. When Chief Murray, of the Metropolitan Police Department appeared to testify on this subject, he stated that in his opinion, the foot patrolman is the best deterrent to crime. Additional policemen should not only result in fewer unsolved crimes, but the experience of the police department demonstrated that many crimes will never take place if a policeman is known to be on the beat. The Washington press has cited many examples of policemen responding to cries and screams for help which enabled them to arrest an assailant in the act of committing a violent crime before the victim suffers the full consequences of the completed crime.

There is no way to ascertain the beneficial effect that good police work has on preventing crimes. I hope that the House will pass this bill today as an emergency measure and will in the future consider the possibility and need for additional legislation designed to remove the elements in our society which give crime a climate in which to develop. The passage of H. R. 7218 would be a step in the right direction and I hope that funds are made available to enable the authorized increase to be a realized post in the near future.

When a contract appears on the surface to be foolproof it pays to take just a minute's time out to inquire, "What accident can possibly befall me?"

In today's hand South became the declarer at a contract of four spades. West's overcall was somewhat attenuated, but he can be forgiven because of the conditions of vulnerability. North's bid of one no trump was probably better than raising the clubs despite the fact that he had but a single stopper in hearts. However, when partner showed the major suit he abandoned further no trump ideas.

The king of diamonds was opened and taken with the ace. A low spade lead brought forth the queen. Another trump lead corroborated the fact that West held four trumps. It will be seen that declarer could not draw all the trumps because he needed a heart trick for game, and if trumps were extracted the enemy could ruff the diamond suit when they got in with the ace of hearts. So declarer led a heart to the king and was somewhat disappointed when East won the trick. East could read that his partner was void of clubs, since he himself held five, the dummy four and declarer had bid the suit. West ruffed the club return and after cashing the diamond followed up with the jack of hearts. There was no way for declarer to avoid the loss of another heart trick and he was down one. Was South guilty of an indiscretion? Could he reasonably have avoided the accident?

The answer is yes. It was quite evident that the hand could not be lost unless the enemy got in a club ruff. The only one that could possibly ruff was West. The hand should therefore be played in such a manner that East could not conveniently obtain the lead. The hearts should have been attacked from dummy. When the three of hearts is led from dummy, if East ducks, the 10th trick is home, and trumps may be drawn If East rushes in with the ace, he can give his partner a club ruff, and then the diamond is the only other trick the opposition can take.

True enough, it was to be expected that West held the ace of hearts, but, if he had it he could win the trick, yet have no way of obtaining the club ruff and the contract would be assured. That East had the ace may be regarded as an accident, but the injury could have been avoided.

Happy Apple Orange Sugar Sauce

(pungent and refreshing)
2 cups canned apple sauce
½ cup light brown sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine apple sauce and sugar; heat until sugar melts. Cool; add orange rind and juice. Chill several hours. Place vanilla ice cream in individual serving dishes; top with the sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Alaskan Angel Food Cake

1 (14-ounce) angel food loaf cake
1 pint chocolate ice cream
1 pint strawberry ice cream
5 egg whites
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cut loaf cake into 3 equal-sized horizontal layers. Cut each pint of ice cream, lengthwise, into 5 equal-sized slices. Use ice cream slices as fillings, the chocolate below and strawberry ice cream between two top layers of cake. Trim off excess ice cream and add between slices to fill in. Place the filled cake on a lightly greased cookie sheet and set in freezer while preparing meringue. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Blend in sugar and vanilla extract; beat until mixture stands in peaks. Completely cover top and sides of cake with meringue, being careful that it touches cookie sheet all around. Return to freezer, unwrapped, and store at 0°F. until ready to use, or bake at once in a hot oven (450°F.) about 5 minutes. When lightly browned serve immediately.

Yield: 12-14 servings.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Three weeks ago, in my weekly letter, I set forth some objections to "Federal Aid" in general and pointed out the wonderful job the local communities have been doing for their own schools—getting a dollar's worth of value for each tax dollar collected and spent locally, in contrast to what they would have been getting under "Federal Aid." These facts stand and need not be augmented. However, I want to make personal reference to the fact that, as ranking minority member of the Senate District Committee, I have supported every improvement suggested for District of Columbia schools and every teacher-salary increase in the District. In fact, I have introduced much of the D. C. school legislation. There is no inconsistency here; you see, schools are a local control, and the U. S. Congress acts as the local "city council" for Washington.

Proponents of Federal Aid to Education have likened it to Federal support of the Army. On this point I could not agree. The Federal army is a Federal responsibility and should be run from Washington. You can't say this about a school in a local community in one of the 50 states. In our public schools, there always has been a personal relationship between teacher and pupil. This is part of our American heritage—something you do not find in the Moscow-controlled school of Russia. If Washington should take over the responsibility of our local schools and start issuing the kind of directives which naturally go with responsibility, we conceivably could lose the treasured teacher-pupil relationship. Our local schools should be kept under local responsibility.

There have been some crocodile tears over what was claimed would be the loss of aid for "impacted areas" should the Federal Aid-to-Education bill fail to pass. The "impacted areas" feature was stuck into the Federal-Aid-to-Education bill as a trick or device to gain support for the bill. As many of you know, I was in the forefront of the successful fight to get the Federal government to accept its part of the responsibility for the areas where the Federal government moves in and establishes bureaus or projects or military bases. Wherever the Federal government takes real estate from the local tax rolls, I have felt it should compensate the local government with equitable payment in the form of "aid" or grants. This kind of Federal aid for "Federally impacted areas" would be continued regardless of has been going on for years and the fate of the Federal-Aid-to-Education bill. To say that a vote against the Federal-Aid-to-Education bill is a vote against "impacted areas" aid simply does not reflect the truth and apparently is said to mislead the public.

Incomes going up!—Half of all American families had money incomes of at least $5,600 in 1960, according to a Census Bureau report last week. Of the nation's 45,500,000 families, 9,000,000 had incomes between $3,000 and $5,000; 11,000,000 had incomes between $5,000 and $7,000; and 15,500,000 families—34% of the total—reported incomes of more than $7,000.

Housing bill passes Senate—The much-debated and amended Housing Bill passed the Senate last Monday by a thumping 64-to-25 vote. Although the bill is not a perfect bill, as I pointed out in the "Senate Cloakroom" two weeks ago, we were able during the consideration of the measure on the Senate floor to get through some amendments which improved it. On the final vote I voted for the bill because it was a "package" deal and it was this "package" or nothing—and, as most everyone agrees, certain features of Housing legislation had to be continued.

This bill is the first Housing bill to attempt to deal with the problem for several years in advance. The bill would carry forward the job of clearing slums and rebuilding the decaying parts of the nation's cities. The bill bulges with various programs.

For the first time, the plight of the lower-middle income families has been recognized—the families with an annual income of $4,000 to $6,000. For the most part, urban areas have been replacing slums with two categories of housing; public low-income housing, for which the middle-income families could not qualify; and urban renewal luxury housing, which they could afford. The new legislation would attempt to solve this problem, on an experimental basis. The Kennedy Administration had recommended that no down payment be required on home purchases; this was changed by amendment. The amount of the down payment would be arrived at by a sliding scale. A $15,000 home could be purchased with a down payment of $555. The 40-years-to-pay feature remained in the bill. Construction of apartments for the lower-middle income class would also be financed under the bill's provisions. The bill would provide for homeowners a broadened home-improved program based on 20-year loans with a ceiling of $10,000, as compared with the present limits of 5 years and $3500.

Items in the bill (some of which I do not approve):

$2,500,000,000 for urban renewal and slum-clearance grants for 4 years; $1,200,000,000 for direct home loans for veterans in the next 6 years; $50,000,000 for direct loans for housing for the elderly; $1,350,000,000 for college dormitory loans over the next 5 years; $750,000,000 for the Federal National Mortgage Association to finance various housing programs including the aid to lower-middle income families; $50,000,000 for Small Business Administration loans to concerns that are forced to move because of Federal action, such as urban renewal; $80,000,000 for planning assistance grants under urban renewal program; $100,000,000 for loans to help improve mass-transit facilities in cities; $50,000,000 for public-facility loans to cities; $10,000,000 for grants for demonstration projects on new types of public housing.

The total, usually given as 6 billion or more, is misleading. Some of the funds listed would not be spent for as long as 15 years or more. The net expenditures for the next fiscal year, starting July 1, are estimated at something less than half-a-billion. Furthermore, over the years in which the money will be put out, a good deal of it will be in the form of loans on which repayments will begin flowing back almost immediately.

Obviously, new money, as provided in the bill, must be made available if the great national effort to restore our cities is not to be slowed. Some of the experimental programs seem to be in order, too. While mass transit is essentially a local problem, certain Federal assistance is appropriate. On the whole, the Senate bill may be considered evidence of Washington's concern for the city dweller, who for a long time has watched on the sidelines as the farmer became the increasingly important beneficiary of Federal largesse.

To encourage private construction and encourage more families to home ownership is, of course, praiseworthy. The Housing bill does this.

Happy Apple Sundaes

The dictionary observes that the origin of "Sundae" is uncertain. What is certain, however, is the general delight in the confection capped ice creams known as Sundaes. So, when in doubt on what to offer for dessert or refreshments, serve Sundaes. And when not in doubt, serve them, too. For sheer enjoyment they can't be beat.

Sundaes are blissfully easy desserts, for you start with scoops of ice cream and simply add the toppings.

One jolly notion is to fill a large bowl with ice cream balls, set out a variety of toppings and let each one concoct his own Sundae. This is gleeful going for Small Fry, and their Seniors have been known to welcome it, too.

Here are some suggestions for Sundaes:

The base for each of these toppings is canned apple sauce — which in itself is novel for this particular use. And good it is, as you will see. The light, zesty apple tang of the sauce offers a keen, refreshing contrast to the rich flavor of the ice cream.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON —The Chairman of the Soviet Committee for Shipbuilding has stated: "The demand of the Soviet Merchant Marine is increasing so rapidly that Soviet shipyards no longer can fully cope with it. In view of this, various ships are under construction for the Soviet Union in Poland, Finland, Denmark, East Germany, West Germany, Holland, Japan and other countries."

Hardly anything could be more peaceful or harmless looking than the plodding, ungainly Soviet-bloc merchant ship. But as an instrument of decisive military, political or economic importance, it looms large and lethal. The occasional slow Soviet ship pulling into a Cuban port is one more nail in the coffin of Cuban liberty. To illustrate what a merchant ship can carry, consider the following: last fiscal year using only 16 comparatively slow transport ships, the United States moved over 400,000 military personnel and dependents across the world's oceans. And ships can also carry the tools of economic and political integration as Soviet vessels surely are.

As the international struggle moves away from the great land area of Europe and Asia to islands like Indonesia, the demands upon the American Navy will become increasingly greater. Our lines are being stretched too thin. Our ships are aging rapidly and our crews are spending more and more time away from home. I have said it before and I say again: our merchant marine is approaching block obsolescence. Seventy-seven per cent of our deep sea dry cargo ships were built nearly 20 years ago during World War II. And the subsidized replacement program is not proceeding fast enough to prevent this obsolescence.

In contrast, the Soviet merchant fleet is young, vigorous and growing rapidly. Anyone who doubts the Soviet ability to prepare itself for the coming maritime struggle should be reminded that though comparatively small its merchant fleet increased more than fifteen times as fast as ours in 1959, and Soviet orders for new construction in 1960 were 80 per cent above those of 1959.

It is clear that the Soviet imperialism will shift from the Eurasian continent onto the oceans of the world in an effort to continue to expand its influence. At present our merchant marine is not prepared to meet the challenge and, worse, it gives only feeble signs of improving. The struggle at sea has already begun; in the years ahead it will sharpen from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We must begin today to prepare for the victory that must be ours if we are to remain free.

Zesty Sandwich Filling Scores With Children

Be prepared to appease those hunger pangs when the youngsters take over the kitchen after a vigorous game of cops and robbers. A nourishing sandwich with a glass of milk will do the trick.

Here's a zesty sandwich filling than can be spread between split frankfurter rolls whenever the gang is ready. It is made with American blue cheese and cream cheese in addition to crunchy bits of bacon and celery. Because it's high in calcium, phosphorus and protein, blue cheese is an excellent sandwich choice for growing children. Because of its pungency, a relatively small amount goes along way in this distinctively flavored filling.

BLUE CHEESE ROLLS
(Eight Sandwiches)

3 tablespoons milk
¾ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 4 ounces)
3 ounce package cream cheese
1 cup chopped celery
3 slices crisp bacon, chopped
2 tablespoons chili sauce
8 frankfurter rolls

Combine milk, blue cheese, and cream cheese. Blend until almost smooth. Add celery, bacon and chili sauce. Cut rolls in half lengthwise; remove part of center. Butter each side of rolls and heap with filling. Place halves together.

Almond Flavored Tea Lemonade

3 cups strong tea, cooled
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
1 6-oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate

Combine ingredients and stir until well blended. Pour into tall glasses filled with ice cubes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Restore the shine of aluminum utensils by boiling in them a solution of one teaspoon cream of tartar per quart of water for about 20 minutes.

Blueburgers Taste Great On Cookout

The cookout season is here, and the family will be looking to Dad for some new ideas as he tries to top last year's culinary efforts.

Any amateur chef can graduate into the gourmet class in a jiffy by introducing his family and guests to delicious blueburgers, which are especially good when made on a charcoal grill.

Blueburgers are regular hamburgers topped with tangy American blue cheese, which is crumbled on the patties just before they are taken off the grill.

A milder spread can be made for outdoor cooking by blending equal parts of butter aand blue cheese. The spread can be applied while the burgers still are on the grill or after they have been served.

The combination of beef and blue cheese long has been a favorite for outdoor chefs. In addition to using American blue cheese for blueburgers, the mellow cheese also is delicious crumbled over steaks cooked on an outdoor grill. The cheese highlights the beef anad creates a mouth-watering back yard treat.

Broiled Spiny Lobster Tails

6 frozen spiny lobster tails (5 to 8 ounces each)
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
Dash paprika
¾ cup butter or margarine, melted
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Thaw lobster tails. Cut in half lengthwise. Lay lobster tails open as flat as possible on a broiler pan. Brush lobster meat with butter. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and paprika. Broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 10 to 15 minutes, depending on size of lobster tails. Combine butter and lemon juice; serve with lobster tails. Serves 6.

Mold In Gelatin

Almost any fresh fruit or melon will be delicious as a salad or appetizer if it is molded in gelatin flavored with California white dinner wine. Substitute Sauterne or Chablis for half the usual amount of water. To make the jellied base as refreshing as the fruits themselves, allow a few sprigs of fresh mint to simmer in the hot water used to dissolve the gelatin. Lemon juice will add piquancy, too.

Slip rubber bands over spools of thread to keep the ends from unwinding and getting entangled in the sewing box.

Happy Apple Gingered Topping

(piquant and spicy)

¼ cup chopped candied ginger
2 cups canned apple sauce
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine candied ginger and apple sauce; chill in refrigerator several hours, or overnight. Place a serving of vanilla ice cream in individual dishes; top with the sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Baby-food jars with screw-on lids make ideal containers for spices like garlic. Painted, they make an attractive spice display set.

Stock Market Drifts Lower In Slow Session

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks floated into lower territory Thursday in the slowest session since the very first of the year.

Activity slumped to only 2,880,000 shares from Wednesday's already slow 3,210,000 with a few active stocks taking the lion's share.

Losers easily dominated the gainers by 701 to 331 out of a slim total of 1,243 issues crossing the tape. New lows came to 22 against 10 new highs.

The Dow-Jones industrial average dropped a minor 0.47 to 685.62, rails were down 0.22 to 140.16 and utilities eased 0.11 to 111.72.

Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks fell 24 cents.

General Dynamics was a prominent 1⅞ loser following a dividend omission. Textron rose 1⅛ to 27 after the company said it would invite tenders on its stock at $28 a share.

Ling-Temco rose 1¾ and Chance Vought ½ point. Lockheed continued up at 46½ on its good chart pattern, backing down from a high of 47¼, General Precision dropped another 2½ in its recent decline after directors decided to call in the preferred stock for conversion.

BALTIMORE (AP) — M. F. Steinberger, manager of highway transportation for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at the time of his retirement in 1957, died Wednesday at Sinai Hospital after suffering a heart attack.

Steinberger, 74, spent his entire career with the railroad. He began work for the B&O in 1905 as an axeman, later served as a chairman and rodman, inspector, and lighterage agent in New York. He began highway transportation manager at Baltimore in 1929.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency announced Thursday award of a $251,420 contract to Chaney Fence Co., St. Louis, for a fence enclosing the Dulles International Airport in suburban Virginia.

The contract calls for 31 miles of fencing, including 21 miles of chain link and 10 miles of galvanized wire fence.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission Thursday dismissed protests against fare increases put into effect nearly a year ago by the W. M. A. Transit Co. on certain routes between Washington and Southern Maryland points.

The increases, in effect since last July 17, range from 15 cents on previous 30-cent fares for trips from Washington to Capitol Heights and Suitland, to 10 cents on the previous $1.10 fare between Washington and Indian Head.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been asked to prevent construction of a sewer plant on the Potomac River opposite Mount Vernon.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., said he offered a joint resolution "to protect the view" from George Washington's home because it appears that congressional action is the only means to halt the plans for the sewer plant.

The area involved, in Prince Georges and Charles counties, Md., would be put under federal jurisdiction. The resolution, Saylor said, would not prevent residential development.

Saylor said he understands both Gov. Tawes of Maryland and Gov. J .Lindsay Almond of Virginia have agreed to cooperate with property owners to preserve the view from Mount Vernon.

The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission wants to build a sewer plant at Mockley Point on the Maryland shore.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joseph L. LaFleur, 32, an inmate at the Maryland House of Correction who escaped Tuesday while working at the State Laundry at Sykesville, has been recaptured by Baltimore police who spotted him riding in a taxicab.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Negotiators hoped for interim agreements between striking electrical workers and individual contractors as a strike of some 1,000 union members in Baltimore enters its fifth day Friday.

The interim agreements would be subject to amendment after a final contract settlement is made between members of Local 28, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the National Electrical Contractors Association, in negotiations to resume next week. Electrical workers are seeking 35-cent hourly wage increases from 26 employers on industrial and commercial jobs in the Baltimore area.

JESSUP, Md. (AP)—The Maryland highway death toll for 1961 rose to 187 with the fatal injury Wednesday night of Claude Cresgrove Jr., 9, of Jessup. New Crossing Will Eliminate Road Danger

After a number of delays over the past two years the Mexico Farms Road has been relocated and one particularly dangerous grade crossing has been eliminated.

Parents of school children who are transported from the Mexico Farms area to school by bus made many protests to county commissioners, school officials and the B&O Railroad division headquarters here over the hazards their children were subject due to the crossing.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners made plans for relocating the roadway and the B&O Railroad, with the help of federal aid money under the grade crossing elimination program, had a three-span bridge erected to cross the tracks.

The railroad overhead bridge was completed last year but delays of one kind or another held up the construction of the roadway. Federal aid money was also obtained by the county to help pay for the road. The county's share of the road cost was $74,000.

The situation at the grade crossing of the B&O was complicated by the new yard expansion program which extended to the Mexico Farms area from the southern edge of the city.

The added tracks and freight cars placed on sidings near the crossing obscured the vision of vehicles using the crossing.

More than a mile of roadway was constructed by the county to connect with the B&O bridge and the route of the highway designed so that it would pass beneath the Western Maryland Railway bridge over the old C&O Canal.

U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall was successful in getting permission from the National Parks Service to use the right of way of the canal so the road could be built beneath the WM bridge. This eliminated any necessity of a railroad crossing at that point.

The access road built by the county into the new Works 7 plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company some years ago also eliminated a bad crossing situation on the B&O at that point.

Permission Refused

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. has been refused permission to import 204 million cubic feet per day of natural gas from Canada by a Federal Power Commission examiner. Although the company failed to show a need for the extra gas, the decision is subject to review by the power commission.

Frey Named To B&O Post In Cumberland Division

W. W. 'Pete' Frey, a native of Keyser, and former Cumberlander, has been named assistant superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B&O Railroad Company with headquarters here. This is a new position on the division.

Frey is well-known in this area having served with the B&O as trainmaster on the West End of the Cumberland Division, with headquarters at Keyser.

He has held various positions on the railroad, starting in 1929 as a clerk. He served in the Car Department, leaving that department to become a brakeman on the Cumberland Division. He then served as fireman and was later promoted to engineer.

Frey was named supervisor of fuel on economy and held that position until he became road foreman of engines, both on the Cumberland Division. He served as trainmaster on the West End of the Cumberland Division from May 1957 until July 1960, when he was sent to Baltimore as chief supervisor of motive power operation.

Frey is married to the former Doreen Sanders of Keyser, and they have two children, Margaret Ann and William W. Frey.

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, Masonic Order, being a member of Potomac Lodge, Cumberland Consistory and the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

The Frey family will take up residence in Cumberland in the near future.

Akron Man Sought Here

A warrant for an Akron, Ohio, man has been forwarded to Ohio authorities as a detainer for Charles Dempsie in connection with the April breaking and entering at Keech's Drug Store, Virginia Avenue.

Edwin R. Lilya, criminal investigator for Allegany County, said that Dempsie, who has relatives in Cumberland, is being held by Ohio authorities on charges of passing fraudulent checks.

Dempsie had been in custody in Ohio, following his indictment on another criminal charge there. He reportedly posted bond, but forfeited it when he left the state.

He was arrested in Missouri on the bad check charge and returned to Ohio.

Vote Notices Being Mailed

Notices will be mailed out soon by the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors to women whose names have been changed due to their marriage.

John R. Kelly, chief clerk of the board, said that the notices will be mailed to the women at the addresses which are listed on their registration cards in the election office. They have two weeks to either call at the board office or else to contact election officials by phone to have the change made.

In the event they fail to do so within the prescribed period their names will be taken from the voting rolls.

Kelly said that Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden notifies the board at six-month intervals of persons over 21 who are convicted of any of 23 major crimes and the names of the convicted persons are stricken from the voting rolls. They are not permitted to exercise their voting franchise from then on, unless a pardon is granted to them by the governor of the state.

The election board officials also strike off the names of all persons who died in the county and who are registered with the board.

Some Governments Are Deadbeats

A peculiar breed of government exists today in many nations of the world which consider themselves, politically, to be sovereign states entitled to all the respect and advantages of independent peoples. It is a breed which accepts privileges, but rejects responsibilities.

Defaulted international bonds are an example of the ease with which many governments today dismiss their responsibilities with no more twinge of conscience than a shrug of the shoulders. Khrushchev began the latest rash of bond defaults last year by waving into the "archives of history" any claims for restitution of the $4 billion pre-World War I Russian debt dissolved by the communist heirs.

Holders of the Russian bonds — mostly Europeans and Americans — have no chance of receiving the money thus stolen from them until the replacement of the Kremlin dictatorship with a government responsible to its own people and to its outside obligations. A host of other countries, many of them members of the communist empire, have followed Khrushchev's lead in disavowing their international debts.

Cuba, in addition to seizing billions of dollars worth of privately-owned property under Fidel Castro, has torn up its bonded indebtedness of almost $52 million. Again, Americans formed the majority of the robbed bondholders.

Bolivia, which received $10 million in "special" aid from the United States in the last year, has lapsed into default on $56 million in bonds dating back almost 30 years. The Congo, which sold a bond issue to American investors in 1958 amounting to $15 million, has already defaulted on its interest payments.

Economic tragedy can strike any nation for a time, but the instances of responsible governments which fall into insolvency are rare. None can be found among today's crop of defaulters.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The President's Dilemma

Those who expect the President to act like a conservative Republican are asking too much from a Democrat with Fabian Socialistic leanings. On the other hand, the Democrats who believe that President Kennedy will carry forward the ailing program of Harry Hopkins are also mistaken, for as idealistic as John Kennedy may seem to be, he comes of hard-headed practical stock.

Those who assumed that the President would be a figurehead under the captainship of his father, Joe Kennedy, misunderstand any father-son relationship. No matter how wise a father may be, a son naturally is a product of his own generation and will sooner or later go his own way. The Kennedy family is extraordinarily talented and close-knit and while it is interesting to note the loyalty of one member for another, it is not to be expected that they will all have the same viewpoint. Age, experience, temperament will affect them as everybody else in this very complex world.

John Kennedy is likely to be an altogether different man in 1964 from what he was in 1960. Four years in the White House at a climactic period will not only influence his attitude but he is still young enough to grow intellectually as well as emotionally. He is not likely to become so set in his ways that he cannot adjust to the facts which confront him.

Vienna is a case in point. He went to Vienna without a program on an exploratory visit with Khrushchev. He was undoubtedly advised that this was a smart thing to do by the negative-minded eggheads who may be specialists in particular fields but who lack imagination and far-sightedness. Vienna was a failure for John Kennedy in that Khrushchev used it to belittle him, but it was a success from the standpoint that Kennedy has learned that he cannot deal with Khrushchev by any standards with which he is familiar.

Khrushchev is a liar, not diplomatically as Talleyrand might have been, but overt and direct. Khrushchev is brutal and no conversation between him and anyone can be confidential because he regards the refinements of international relations as bourgeois absurdities like a white tie or patent leather shoes.

Kennedy had to learn this for himself, apparently. He could have known it from Nixon's experience, from Eisenhower's experience, from Hammarskjold's experience. But he wanted to see whether he could not succeed where others failed. Now he knows.

This was a costly search for knowledge, but it is worth the price if the President has learned who misled him concerning Cuba, Laos, and Vienna. Or if he was not misled, if he pursued his own course, he now knows from experience that he could not deal with Khrushchev; that communication with a Communist requires not only a different language but that the moral responsibilities of men are on a different basis in West and East.

To have learned that early in his career will prove to be a great advantage to Kennedy. It will make him more suspicious and more cautious and he will observe who in his entourage seeks to lead him into a position which will destroy him politically and bring shame upon his country. It is likely that those who are responsible for the Vienna fiasco will not last long in this Administration, although it is often difficult to fire men from important positions without losing face or developing a political scandal.

The President's dilemma now is how far can he move away from those who joined his campaign without political offense; how far will practical experience drive him from the ideological positions which he had accepted as correct during the years when he was a Senator. He will have to reach a decision soon or his Administration will suffer from indecision and if he decides on a firm policy, he will have to let those men go who cannot be trusted to carry forward a policy from strength.

John Kennedy unfortunately does not have too long to reach a decision. As General MacArthur said to him: "The chickens have come home to roost" and he is in charge of the chicken house. Abraham Lincoln and Herbert Hoover were on the same spot almost as soon as they were elected to the Presidency. They were elected at a climactic moment. So was John Kennedy.

JFK Gets Report On Post-Cuba Probe Of CIA

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Last week, the President received the final report of the special committee which he named after the Cuban failure to investigate the operational branch of the Central Intelligence Agency.

This group, composed of Atty. General Robert Kennedy, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Adm. Arleigh Burke, and the CIA director, Allen W. Dulles, has been reporting serially and orally. Oral reporting was no doubt preferred because it was thought unwise to compose an elaborate paper on which public curiosity would inevitably center, as it did on the Gaither report.

The main post-Cuba study of the CIA has thus come to an end. A further report is still awaited from a second committee headed by the former president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. James R. Killian. But this committee, charged with studying the CIA's intelligence-gathering activities, has been primarily concerned with technical problems rather than problems of basic organization.

In effect, therefore, the main returns are in, and it is possible to say what is likely to be done and—even more important—what is not likely to be done. In particular, it is highly unlikely that the CIA will be dismantled or divided or partly transferred to Pentagon control or otherwise hacked about in the way that some people have been demanding. Instead, the agency will be left intact.

In the end, there will be some significant personnel changes. But these changes would have occurred even if the Cuban venture had never been undertaken; for CIA director Dulles never planned to remain indefinitely in his post when he accepted re-appointment by President Kennedy.

The President asked Dulles to stay on not only because he admired him, but also to establish the principle that the CIA directorship is a non-political office. Dulles accepted re-appointment with enthusiasm because he rightly thought it was important to establish this non-political principle. From the first, he talked of serving no more than enough time to bridge the transition. It now seems likely that he will retire in the autumn, or perhaps just before the New Year.

But the main Cuba-borne change in the picture will not be the nomination of a new CIA director, which would have occurred in any case. The main change, if present plans are approved by the President, will be the creation of a new post, probably attached to the White House, having some such title as Intelligence Coordinator.

The occupant of the new post will be a man of some eminence and authority— perhaps Gen. Taylor. He will be charged with reviewing and coordinating all U. S. intelligence work, by the intelligence branches of the armed services, by the cryptographers of the National Security Agency, and, of course, by the CIA itself.

This responsibility has in the past quite largely rested on Allen Dulles, in addition to his other duties. But with this responsibility transferred to the new intelligence coordinator, it will become possible to name a new CIA director who is primarily a technician, without Allen Dulle's standing as a public figure. And in the person of the Intelligence Coordinator, the President will also have an independent analyst who can judge the results achieved by the CIA and the lesser intelligence agencies without bureaucratic bias.

The scheme seems eminently sound. Certainly it is vastly more sound than the various schemes for dismantling or dividing the CIA which have been put forward in the wake of the failure in Cuba. The people who fathered these schemes forgot the cardinal rule, that an agency's performance must be judged, not by a single failure, but by the whole record.

In judging the CIA performance, it must also be borne in mind that a grossly excessive burden has been placed on the CIA for a long time. The CIA's operational branch has in effect been used as a kind of general fire brigade, to remedy all the results of a quite inadequate defense policy and a foreign policy marked by grave failures of foresight. The CIA's intelligence branch has been called upon to produce, not reasonable intelligence estimates in the normal sense of the phrase, but micrometric measurements of Soviet progress which were then used to justify dangerous economies in defense investment.

These pernicious practices began under President Eisenhower and were continued by the new Administration. When you call over the times when the CIA has been employed as a fire brigade, beginning in Iran, and when you consider the risks inherent in the misuse of its estimates, it is downright astonishing that a worse result than Cuba was not produced much earlier in the story.

What is amazing in fact is not that the story shows one bad failure. What is amazing is that this agency stood up so well for so long under the burden it was improperly required to carry.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FAME—It is rare indeed when the father of a young son does something in public life that impresses his offspring, but the Justice Department official who got beaten up in the Alabama "freedom rider" rioting, made it with flying colors.

John Seigenthaler, administrative assistant to Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, is the man involved. He was knocked unconscious in the outbreak of violence at Montgomery and had to be hospitalized before being sent back to Washington to recuperate. Among his many concerns was what to tell his 5-year-old son to explain his injuries.

But apparently his concern was not warranted. Far from having to explain the injuries, his son was extremely proud that his dad had been in the fight—or in a fight—Seigenthaler doesn't know which.

In any event, the boy paraded his friends into his house the other day to show them the extent of his father's injuries. Seigenthaler figures he'll be a hero to his son for quite a while, but is wondering what he'll say the day the boy walks in with a bloody nose of his own.

FINAL CHAPTER — You were told here recently that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas was suing for $35,000 as the result of an auto collision in which he was involved. The outcome? The jury awarded him a verdict of $1,932.40. This was the exact amount he spent for medical treatment for the injuries he suffered in the accident. He had sought the larger amount because of loss of income from writing and lecturing on his travels, which were curtailed.

The judge in the case cautioned the jury to consider Douglas "as a private citizen, no more, no less." Apparently they complied. After the verdict was in, the judge commented that presiding over the case involving a judge in the highest court in the land was a most unusual experience.

Two Groups Of Obese Males Differ In Attitude

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The obese man who has been fat all his life has a different attitude toward his figure than does the man who puts on weight in adulthood. The so-called juvenile obese male hates his appearance and often blames his difficulties on how he looks.

But this group of men are poor reducers. To paraphrase the old expression, "A girl becomes a woman but a fat boy always remains a fat boy."

Several University of Pennsylvania physicians compared 11 juvenile obese men with 14 of the adult variety and reported the results of their study in the Annals of Internal Medicine. The first group colored their concepts of themselves and their bodies in a derogatory manner.

On looking at himself in a store window or mirror, one said, "I've gotten so I'm careful never to look by accident. It's a feeling that people are right to hate me and to hate anyone who looks as fat as me." Another remarked, "My overweight makes me withdraw from people. I think they look down on me." Still another mentioned, "Weight always has been a problem."

In contrast, the adult obese who caught a glimpse of himself in a window said, "I was surprised at how fat I had become. It's time to get off some of this weight."

The two groups differed also in their relationship to women. The juvenile obese were overly sensitive and readily expressed their concern about their inadequacy with women. Obese adult males were just the opposite—too confident in their abilities along this line.

The Philadelphia physicians believe the juvenile obese men developed their derogatory attitude during adolescence. Teen-agers hate to be different and the chubby boy is subjected to ridicule or abuse.

The juvenile obsese who were not disturbed by their bodily image came from families that viewed the added poundage as a sign of strength and health. The parents of overweight boys might profit from this finding. If they cannot convince the child that he should reduce, the opposite technique might be tried—concentrating on the boy's potentials in football.

TOMORROW: Long auto trips.

SPRAYED VEGETABLES

Mrs. H. R. writes: I have heard that traces of poison pesticides have been found in carrots, beets, and root vegetables. How can I make sure the vegetables I buy at the market are free from poison spray and safe to eat?

REPLY

You can't but you can wash them thoroughly. Vegetables contaminated with harmful pesticides via the roots are removed from the market by the federal department of agriculture.

NATURAL VITAMINS

Mrs. S. T. writes: Do you agree with my doctor that if you eat the proper foods, you don't need vitamins?

REPLY

Yes, provided you don't have an intestinal disorder that prevents the absorption of vitamins; or drink enough whisky to increase your vitamin B needs.

HIGH TEMPERATURE

J. T. writes: Could a person run a temperature of 105 for two days without injury to the brain?

REPLY

Yes, and many people have had higher fevers for longer periods without brain damage. Much depends upon the cause of the elevated temperature.

ARTHRITIS OF HEAD

A. B. writes: Can arthritis affect the skull?

REPLY

Only if we consider the joints formed by the facial bones and the lower jaw. At least half of these joints are made up of a bone that is part of the skull.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

They say that Mel Allen, famous sports announcer, played ball in college. In his freshman year, he was wont to chase a fly ball, yelling, "I got it"—then drop it. But Mel majored in English, and in his senior year had progressed to the point where he'd circle under a fly ball shouting "I have it"—and then drop it.

Have you ever climbed the hills of San Francisco or ascended in one of the famous old cable cars? If you have, you will appreciate this boast of its natives: "The great thing about our city is that when you get tired of it, you can always lean against it."

It was a farmer with a philosophic turn of mind who observed, "Hens are such perverse creatures. When eggs are cheap they lay continuously. But when eggs are high you can't get an egg out of them!"

Senate Group Told About Demands Made Of TV Producer By Networks

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Most TV producers haven't relished tangling with the networks in testifying before the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Committee about sex and crime and its effect on the youth of America. They have ducked any criticism that might blacklist them with those who can rule what shows come off or stay on the networks.

One exception was Hungarian-born Ivan Tors who had the courage to introduce written evidence that the networks had demanded more sex and violence in order to compete with other sex and violence.

Tors has produced a long list of movies and TV shows, including 155 "Sea Hunt" shows, only five of which featured any violence. But when he planned "The Man And the Challenge," the story of a doctor-scientist aimed at encouraging American youth to take more interest in science and thus compete with the Russians, he ran into trouble.

Joe Bailey, executive vice-president of Doyle, Dane & Bernbach, representing Chemstrand, one of the sponsors, "told me it was impossible to get network time," Tors told the Senators.

More Sex, Less Doctor

"Finally, NBC agreed for Saturday night at 8:30, but the price was that we cannot call our doctor 'doctor' or 'scientist,' and we had to put a great deal of sex and violence into the show.

"Of course, I objected," Tors told the committee. "I said I didn't mind having occasional girls in a show, but this was about a doctor. I can't make a show about a doctor who can't be called a doctor.

NBC, Tors explained, had told him that a scientist or a doctor should not be a leading man because he is not glamorous. "This was at a time when we had to inspire our youth to go into science," he added. It was also at a time when President Eisenhower was asking $100,000,000 of Congress to encourage education in science.

"I am willing to give them exciting adventure, but not sex and violence," Tors testified. "Mr. Bailey said he was against sex and violence himself. All he would like to have from me is some women in the show because he is selling nylon and that is very important.

"But from then on, I had pressures to put in girls. I had pressures to have sex in every story though it was completely not necessary."

"Who passed the information to Mr. Bailey that sex and violence should be a major component of your show?" asked Senate Counsel Carl Perian.

"Mr. Bailey said this came from Mr. Levy (David Levy, NBC vice-president) for programming and talent," replied Tors.

"I met Mr. Levy only once . . . when he came out here to see one of my shows. Mr. Levy looked at the show and he was not happy. He felt the show was interesting, but it was too much like a John Gunther show, like a documentary . . . and he reminded me, he said:

" 'We are against a show which is "Wanted, Dead or Alive," . . . in which the hotrod cowboy kills a man a minute. This is what you are against and this is what you have to remember . . .' "

"This was the only conversation I had with Mr. Levy."

Tors said he was so upset about the NBC ultimatum that his doctor could not be called a doctor that, after about six shows, he told NBC's Jack Ballard.

"I am going to write a personal letter to General Sarnoff because I don't believe General Sarnoff, who is a scientist, and knows the importance of scientific education, would tolerate that his network objects to a scientist being glamorized.

"Mr. Ballard said: 'Wait a minute,' " Tors continued. "Ballard went back to NBC. Mr. Levy was there, and that day we had a call from NBC withdrawing the objection.

"I am sure if General Sarnoff knew about this it wouldn't have happened.

CBS Also

Tors related a similar experience with CBS for which he produced "The Aquanauts," showing the new marvels of underwater development, oceanography, mining, new types of submarines.

His purpose, he said, was to "produce a wholesome, family show, not to knock off 'Wagon Train.' "

"What?" queried startled Senate Committee Chairman Dodd.

"Not to knock off 'Wagon Train' —win against 'Wagon Train,' " explained Tors patiently.

"At a certain point," continued Tors, "CBS changed, and through our producer in Los Angeles, I received instructions that we should try to make shows like 'Surfside 6' and similar successful shows with youth and crime in it."

"What?" said Senator Dodd.

"Youth and crime," explained Tors. "I think their intentions are good, but everybody is so worried about ratings that whenever ratings are not high enough, they will try to make changes and will try to imitate successful formulas and the changes are made."

Rather than spice up this wholesome show with crime, Tors said he would like to leave at the earliest opportunity. The show without Tors was consequently given a new look and retitled "Malibu Run."

"What surprised me," Tors commented, "was CBS's intentions were good . . . there was a great sincerity in their desire to produce a wholesome show in 'The Aquanauts.' Then, suddenly this approach changed — and the change did not increase the ratings."

Tors said that he now had a clause in his contract allowing him to withdraw from productions which "adversely affect the youth of this country."

Tors explained, "I think prostitution is profitable and selling narcotics is profitable. We have no excuse to make any kind of shows only because they are profitable. I think we have a tremendous responsibility which I see more and more as my children grow up and I see how they are adversely affected by TV viewing."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

They retired George Joannides —the little owl of the New York Police Department — a few days ago. He had put in 35 years, but he didn't look it. He is a neat alert man, blinking wisely behind shell glasses and he wears a pearl gray fedora with the brim up.

His last assignment was out of the 20th Squad on West 68th Street, which embraces the piers, the elegant decay of Riverside Drive, the jungles of Amsterdam Avenue and the switchblade sector of Central Park. His partner was Dan Fogarty. Dan is big; George is small. They drove a small inconspicuous car over the rutty snows of winter and down the high canyons blistering with the heat of summer.

Like all policemen, this team made its good hits, and its misses. They pulled no miracles and put their faith in hard work. I went out with them on a night tour one winter evening and Dan Fogarty stopped in two drugstores to buy nipples.

Joannides shook his head sadly: "He's always buying nipples," he said. "His kids have to use a special kind, I guess." They made a stop on 72nd, near the Drive. A stout European woman met them on the 8th floor. She had been robbed of a ring with a two karat diamond.

George went through the bedroom, where the jewelry was, with his hands clasped behind his back. He touched nothing. Dan examined all the windows and the two doors. The woman stood wringing her hands. Fogarty went out in the hall and locked the door. He took a stiff piece of celluloid out of his pocket and opened the door by sliding it down the crack.

"You need a better lock than this," he said. Joannides came out of the bedroom. "The considerate burglar," he said. The considerate burglar had been operating on the west side. He disturbed nothing, and always took but one item of jewelry out of a box. He left the others, hoping the one ring would not be missed for a day or two.

This gave him getaway time. George made notes, talked to the woman, and left. Fogarty reported the case in to the 20th, and an alarm went out. They knew the man they wanted.

The second stop was a bar off Broadway. They double-parked and went inside. It was a dim place with a juke box and some booths. The detectives worked fast. Fogarty beckoned a girl in lavender toreador pants into a booth. Joannides, hands clasped behind under his topcoat, nodded to a Greek chef and walked back into the kitchen.

The chef had been behind the bar at 8 a. m. He was washing glasses. The girl in the toreador pants had knocked on the glass door. The Greek asked what she wanted. A glass of water, she said. The chef unlocked the door and gave her the water.

A few minutes later, a young man had come through the glass door with a gun. He had waved it at the chef and asked him for the money in the till. The girl had stifled a scream with her hand.

George Joannides left the chef in the kitchen. He came out and nodded to Fogarty. Dan left the girl, and the two men conferred on the stories they were getting. It was a Mutt and Jeff picture. They nodded and George went back to the kitchen and asked the chef to come with him to the 20th Detective Squad. The chef looked sad. He took his apron off and folded it.

Dan told the girl he was bringing her in. She started to cry. It was an old story and the detectives filled in the missing parts as they left for the car. The girl worked with the holdup man. They worked bars in the early morning. The girl looked sexy and, when she saw a man alone behind a bar, she asked for water.

A holdup always followed. The chef heard the story and shook his head. He admitted that, after he gave the girl the glass of water, he had made advances. Then the young man had come in with the gun. The lesson had cost the Greek $145.

The girl said that her boy friend told her to stay around the bar. In that way, she could tell him how the police were doing. He was, in fact, waiting for her in their apartment now. An alarm went out for him.

Joannides and Fogarty put their prisoners in the car and George turned the key in the lock. The car wouldn't move. A priest stepped off the curb, looked in and growled: "You going some place?" George Joannides tried to be sociable. "Back to the squad room, father," he said pleasantly. "If I can get this crate started."

"You'll have to try another automobile," the priest said. "This one is mine." It was. Fogarty laughed until his eyes were moist. George kept mumbling: "It looks just like ours, and how come he's double-parked?"

They retired the little owl of the New York Police Department a few days ago. Somewhere a young patrolman has been given a new detective's shield. He's going to need a lot of experience to become another Joannides. . .

Joint Effort

U. S. soldiers and civilians joined, through CARE, to help the people of Colinas de Caceres, Panama. Men of Battery B, 22nd Artillery, Fort Kobbe, Canal Zone, built a new school for the town's 200 children, helped the adults turn the old building into a community center. Acting for the homefolks, CARE delivered books and class equipment for the school, sewing supplies for the center.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Can You Say "No" Gracefully?

When you refuse an invitation, whether by wish or necessity, refrain from elaborate explanation. Ideally, an invitation is put so as to demand only a simple "yes" or "no" answer. In such cases, you can say no, period. If you are pressed for the reason behind your negative answer, it is enough to say, pleasantly, "I've made other plans."

Once you start making excuses, you may find yourself on the spot. Imagine this circumstance:

You are invited to a party which, for some reason, you prefer not to attend. You excuse yourself by saying that an old school chum will be in town that evening.

What happens, then, if your would-be hostess insists that you bring the non-existent friend along?

Etiquette and good manners spring from consideration for others. It is far more considerate to protect another's ego from injury by saying "no" than by fabricating an excuse which is obviously false later. How embarrassing if you trip yourself by telling the person whose invitation you refused (perhaps because of the friend) what a wonderful time you had at some other party on the same night!

When you are tempted to accept an invitation for diplomatic reasons, knowing you won't fulfill the social obligation, think twice! It is far easier to refuse — point blank but politely — than to accept immediately and be forced to make up an excuse a day or two later. That's the kind of situation where you are most likely to become involved in lengthy explanations, or petty prevarications, which will plague you at a future date.

Protect your own reputation for good manners, and your friend's feelings, by learning how to say "no."

It was also noted that election of officers would be held at the July meting.

New Library Quarters Considered At Keyser

KEYSER — Officers of the Keyser-Mineral County Public Library will meet Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. with the board of directors of the Farmers and Merchants Bank to consider the possibility of securing the bank building for a new library.

The bank reportedly has offered the building to the city, providing the library committee can produce a successful plan for full maintenance in the years ahead. According to a spokesman from the library group, this would probably mean floating a levy which would result in a small additional tax on either a city or county-wide level.

Heading the delegation will be Mrs. Lucy B. Ebert, Burlington, president of the library board, along with the other officers and eight board members. Also present will be Mrs. J. Paul Blundon, Miss Mary F. Shipper, C. Reeves Taylor and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, librarian. Two members of the advisory committee, Mrs. E. A. See and Mrs. James T. Handlan, will attend. The third member, David G. Nuzum, is currently doing graduate work in Texas.

The present library is housed on the basement floor of the elementary school building on South Mineral Street. Officials pointed out that the new facilities would, perhaps, mean hiring custodians and additional workers but at the same time could offer to the community better service, a larger selection of reading material and more convenient access to the many citizens, who are downtown daily. The bank site is located in the center of the business district on Main Street.

In the event a satisfactory agreement can be reached between the library and bank directors and ultimately approved by city and county officials, representatives of the State Library Commission will come to Keyser and discuss its part in expanding the local service of loaning best-sellers and pertinent reading matter for limited periods of time.

Meanwhile, sealed bids are being received for the construction of the new Farmers and Merchants Bank two doors south of the present structure. Architect is the firm of Martens Associated Architects and Engineers, Charleston. Bank President J. Paul Blundon said bids will be received until 2 p. m. July 19.

Miners To Get Vacation Pay

By United Press International

This is big payday week end for West Virginia coal miners.

Fifteen million dollars or more is expected to be distributed in regular pay and vacation pay. The annual miners' vacation begins Saturday. About $8.25 million of the total payroll is in vacation pay for about 50,000 men.

Miners who have worked regularly since last year are entitled to $200 in vacation pay. For others who have worked a month or more, the vacation pay will be distributed at a rate of about $17 a month.

State Mines Department figures show that only about 31,000 men were working as of the last survey in April. However, about 20,000 others worked at least a month since the 1960 vacation.

The vacation period runs through July 10. That's a Monday. Because the 4th of July falls the vacation period, the men get an extra day off.

Grant Co. Loses Top Educators

PETERSBURG — A. Neil Frye, superintendent of Grant County schools, submitted his resignation at a Board of Education meeting Tuesday night after serving in that capacity for the past 12 years.

James Butcher, who has served as assistant superintendent, also resigned at the meeting. The resignations are effective as of August 20, at which time both men will take up duties elsewhere.

Frye, a native of Grant County, was educated in Grant County schools and served as a teacher before he was appointed to his present post. He is married to the former Pauline Cunningham. They have four children.

He has accepted a position with Fairmont State Teachers College as assistant professor of education in charge of secondary teacher training.

The Frye's moving also complicates the situation in the local high school since Mrs. Frye has held the post of instructor in the Latin and English departments for the past several years.

Butcher came to Grant County from Webster County two years ago to replace Galen Duling. He has accepted a position with Shepherd College in the education department and will replace Miss Florence Shaw.

Keyser Principal Retires

C. Neff Weimer Is Successor

KEYSER—The Mineral County Board of Education Tuesday announced the retirement of J. P. Judy, principal at Keyser Elementary School and former principal of Fort Ashby High School.

He will be succeeded by C. Neff Wimer, of New Creek, principal of Wiley Ford School since 1945.

Judy, who spent 43 years in the teaching profession, had been principal at the local school since 1954.

His retirement became effective May 31, the end of the school term.

Judy began teaching in Tucker County in 1912, moved to Grant County in 1913, and then returned to Tucker County in 1914.

He joined the Mineral County system in 1915, but accepted a position in Delaware the following year where he remained until 1922 when he took a leave of absence to further his studies.

Judy began teaching at Keyser Elementary School in 1925, and assumed the principalship several years later. He joined the Keyser High School faculty in 1938 and became principal during the absence of A. G. Springer who was serving in the armed forces in World War II.

He became principal of Fort Ashby High School in 1946 and remained there until 1954 when he returned to Keyser.

Judy received his A. B. degree from Bridgewater College and a master's degree and principal's certificate from West Virginia University.

His successor has been a teacher for 24 years and prior to his principal's post at Fort Ashby, he was principal at New Creek and Fountain schools.

Wimer is a graduate of Potomac State College and obtained his A. B. degree at Shepherd College and his master's degree and principal's certificate at West Virginia University.

Close Vote Features Referendum On Garrett County Liquor Sales

OAKLAND — Four election districts in Garrett County covering the southern shore of Deep Creek Lake along Route 40 approved the legal sale of whiskey by the drink in a referendum conducted.

It had been reported by the Board of Election Supervisors that a fifth district had favored the sale of whiskey, but a recheck of the figures showed the district had opposed the referendum by a single vote, 505 for, and 506 against.

This district, West Oakland, had been incorrectly reported as favoring the plan 509 to 506. In one precinct 164 votes for the measure were reported and the number should have been 160. The vote in the district was so close, a single ballot can be the deciding factor, officials pointed out.

One factor might change the picture again, officials said. There are six absentee ballots which cannot be opened and counted until the official canvass today. If five of these favor the sale of whisky, the District will be wet. Otherwise, it will be dry.

The four areas approving the sale of whisky included East Oakland, which runs from Third Street in the county seat, to Deep Creek Lake and the bridge that carries Route 219 across to McHenry.

The other three are Grantsville, Avilton and Finzel, all located on the northern top of the county.

Two Stores Authorized

As provided in the bill sponsored by Sen. Bernard I. Gonder, the county package liquor dispensaries will be located in Oakland and Grantsville.

The legal sale becomes effective July 1 and licenses for the bona fide hotels, restaurants and veterans and fraternal organizations will be handled by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners which will be sitting as a liquor control board.

Only the sale of whisky by the drink will be allowed in those establishments. Package purchases must be made at the county stores.

Board Backed Bill

The county commissioners and a large group of businessmen together with the Deep Creek Lake Promotional Council backed the favorable passage of the issue.

They contended that whisky is being consumed in Garrett County and the taxpayers should get the benefit of the taxes.

That county is the only one in the state that does not participate in the sharing of the state liquor taxes as only beer is legal in Garrett.

More Voted Against

In the overall count, Garrett County actually voted dry as the 4,958 voters who went to the polls, 2,902 were against and 2,056 were for the legal sale.

The section of the lake where liquor-by-the-drink will become legal is along Route 219 on the southern shore where Cabin Lodge, Thayer's Barn and other establishments are located.

The Sang Run District, which voted overwhelmingly against liquor, 79 to 192, covers most of the northern and eastern sections of the lake.

The referendum received its strongest defeats in Mt. Lake Park, Red House, Accident, Swanton and Kitzmiller districts.

Tax Collection Procedure Outlined By Sheriff Kemp For Mineral County

KEYSER — Sheriff Earl E. Kemp said yesterday there has been so much confusion in his office since final tax notices were mailed that he felt some public explanation of the procedures in tax assessments would have a lot of time in sending people to the assessor's office for a supplemental report.

Each year, the assessor, through the County Court, appoints deputies in each of the magisterial districts, whose duty it is to contact the taxpayers, assess their real estate and personal property, collect their capitation (or head tax) and dog tax.

If the assessor did not see a Mineral County resident last year, his personal property including his car, was not placed on the assessor's book. In order to get a receipt to buy car licenses it is necessary to visit the assessor for a supplemental assessment. This creates additional work for both the sheriff and assessor's offices as well as the taxpayer. If the field assessor does find a person to assess him, a lot of time in delay and taxes would be eliminated if he would stop in the assessor's office at the Court House, he said.

After assessments have been completed, Sheriff Kemp noted, sheets are filed alphabetically according to name and district. Lists of all real estate, including description, assessed valuation, taxes on same, assessed valuation of personal property and taxes on it, and a list of cars and trucks, assessed valuation on them and amount of taxes are all copied in a land and personal property book. Copies of this book are given to the county clerk and sheriff.

From this book the Sheriff's office makes out the tax statements. Eight copies of the taxes are made which consist of a first and second half statement, which are sent to the taxpayer when completed, two copies each for first and second half taxes for the office, one of which is a receipt, when taxes are paid and one for office records. They include one copy of the make and year of a car or truck which accompanies applications for car licenses and a last notice reminder before taxes become delinquent.

Taxes are divided in halves because a number of people are not able to pay their taxes all at one time, the sheriff explained. This creates some confusion for some people because when they pay their first half taxes they think all of their taxes are paid for the year. Some complain that they did not receive a second half notice. These are mailed with the first half notice so those wanting to pay for the entire year can do so. Others complain that they did not receive any tax notice at all.

The sheriff explained this could be true if a person has moved and left no change of address. A stack of returned, last-notice statements are now in the office stamped "moved . . . left no address." Another common complaint is: "I sold my property in May (or some other month), therefore, I do not owe for a full year." The code states that a person is assessed for and responsible for the taxes on whatever he owns on January 1 of the taxable year for the full year, Sheriff Kemp declared.

Sheriff Kemp emphasized that after July 1, 1961, all county and state taxes will be delinquent.

According to law all taxes unpaid by July 1 are listed and published in a county newspaper. There is a 50-cent delinquent charge after that time and $1 charge on personal property after it has been published. There is a 50-cent delinquent charge added to real estate after July 1. Each tract of real estate is published once in July and three times in November. One dollar is added every time each tract is advertised. Both real estate and personal property are subject to nine per cent interest after June 1.

Sheriff Kemp said, "if you let your taxes become delinquent and have not paid them in former years, you can rest assured that I am going to use every means available in the code to collect them, even if I have to resort to suits or attachments."

West Virginia Facing Revenue Curtailment

All Agencies Told To Economize

United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The revenue picture is so dark that West Virginia state government spending will be curtailed at the very outset of the new fiscal year.

State Board of Public Works has directed all departments and agencies to set aside a 3 per cent "reserve" from their quarterly appropriations for the new spending period starting July 1.

Finance Commissioner Truman E. Gore said Thursday he asked the board to do this. He said the revenue picture for the now-ending fiscal year has failed to improve and that income probably will be about $4.5 million less than expectations.

With this in mind, state officials apparently believe that some of the revenue estimates for the coming fiscal year may have been a bit optimistic. They decided not to take a wait-and-see attitude but to start building a "cushion" right at the start.

Deficit spending by the state government is unconstitutional in West Virginia — that is, it can't use the dollar-down-and-dollar-a-week practice of businesses or individuals.

Gore said he felt it was imperitive that the state start building up a cash balance at the start of the new fiscal year because it won't have any left over from the 1960-61 period. A year ago, a nice cushion of $11.1 million was on hand for the new fiscal year.

Gore said he and other state officials don't want to operate "too close to the margin" between black and red.

The cutback in spending applies to schools as well as other spending units. However, a state school official said it will not affect the 1961-62 school term.

The Legislature early this year enacted a bill calling for a minimum 180 days of school a year in each county — or about 10 days more than most counties have had. The school spokesman said the austerity program would not endanger the term length.

Students Visit National Airport

Pictured above are a group of students from New Creek School as they were conducted on a tour of the National Airport in Washington by Sgt. John Sualich, shown at the extreme right. Sgt. Sualich accompanied the group on a tour of the entire airport and explained the work done by each segment and its overall relation to the functioning of the airport. He has the responsibility for the safety of every dignitary that arrives at the airport and was selected as the "Citizen of the Year" for Washington. He has also been cited numerous times for bravery above and beyond the call of duty. Dale Snyder, pictured with the dark glasses in the front row, was recognized for his ability to solve aviation questions asked of the group. A four-engine turbo-prop plane was turned over to Principal Harold K. Carvey and each student was privileged to examine all of the plane including the cockpit and the instruments. The airport visit was the highlight of the annual trip made to Washington by the students prior to the dismissal of school.

Pittsburgh Defeats Philadelphia Behind Friend, 5-1

Burgess Hits Two Homers, Has 4 RBIs

Catcher Suffers Injured Finger; Buzhardt Fined

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Smoky Burgess was much the whole show Thursday night when he hit successive homers, was dusted off to bring a warning against pitcher Johnny Buzhardt, and then suffered a possible broken finger in the Pittsburgh Pirates' 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phils.

The little round catcher, batting in four runs as Bob Friend won his eighth game of the season, left the game when he was struck on the third finger of his right hand by a foul tip while pinch-hitter Tony Taylor batted in the seventh.

Burgess was taken to Temple University Hospital for X-rays and returned to Pittsburgh with the Pirates.

It was a big night for Smoky. He hit his sixth homer off Buzhardt in the second and then homered on the first pitch after Dick Stuart opened the fourth with a single and Ruben Amaro booted a potential double play ball by Bob Clemente.

The Pirates led, 4-0, when the sixth - inning fireworks which brought on the banishment of Manager Gene Mauch broke out.

Burgess fouled off Buzhardt's first pitch and then was knocked to the ground by a close pitch. Another inside pitch backed Smoky from the plate and then, with the count 3 and 1, Buzhardt fired one back of the Pittsburgh catcher which caught his bat for a foul as he ducked.

Umpire Chris Pelekoudas stepped out and warned Buzhardt, which meant an automatic $50 fine. This brought Mauch bouncing out of the dugout. Mauch and the umpire engaged in a fiery debate which ended with Mauch being banished.

Price Hurls One-Hitter

Dave' Price pitched the B.P.O. Elks into a fourth place tie with B'nai B'rith in the Hot Stove Baseball League by turning back the Jaycees last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 4-1.

Price pitched a one-hitter, fanned ten and registered his third victory of the campaign. The Jaycees loaded the bases on a walk and two hit batsmen in the 6th inning but Price put on the brakes by whiffing the next batter for the final out.

Tommy Zembower's single in the first inning was the only hit credited to the Jaycees.

The game was featured by the fielding of Tommy Brown, Elks' second baseman, and Lee and Daugherty, Jaycee outfielders.

The Elks colected six hits, including two-baggers by Price and Jim Joyce.

Chicago Clips Dodgers, 7-5

Farrell Is Loser On Williams' Hit

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs opened an extra base hit barrage Thursday to clip the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-5, and salvage the finale of a four-game series.

Six homers were hit in the game, three by each side. The Cubs also had a triple in their 14-hit attack against three Dodger pitchers.

Despite the display of power by both sides, it was a single by Billy Williams that provided the margin of victory and gave reliever Barney Schultz his first win of the season. Williams' hit scored Al Heist, who had tripled, to break a five 5-5 tie in the eighth inning. George Altman also hit a sacrifice fly in the same inning to add an insurance run and send Dick Farrell down to defeat in a relief role.

Owens Planning To Rejoin Phils

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Pitcher Jim Owens, who left the Philadelphia Phillies during spring training, will rejoin the club in Pittsburgh Friday.

Phillies' General Manager John Quinn said he spoke Wednesday night with Owens, who has been working out with the Williamsport farm club in the Eastern League for a month.

Quinn said Owens' arm was all right and the general manager added, "There's no reason not to bring him back. His future is up to himself."

Owens, who had a 4-14 record last year, quit the Phillies in the spring, saying he wasn't in their plans.

Cards of Thanks

We desire to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Etta E. White. We especially wish to thank Rev. Kyle Sawyer, the pallbearers, those who sent flowers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.
THE FAMILY

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear son, Gerald Shepherd, who was killed 3 years ago today, June 23, 1958.
He would not want the ones he loved
To grieve for him today.
We must not say that he is dead
For he is just away.
Away upon a journey,
To a land that's bright and fair,
And though we all miss him here
We know he's happy there.
Sadly missed by
His Mother

City May End

state income tax payments may go over the estimate.

Live Within Means

During the first 11 months, the various city departments spent $1,412,001.63. This left $249,806.72, offset by overages of $188.48 in the Airport and $9.37 in the Parks funds. Other departments appeared to have enough funds remaining to operate during June in the black.

Mr. Gibson said last year's $239,000 surplus included $145,000 of unspent appropriations and $94,000 of excess revenues. The surplus was enough, with some early payments of corporation taxes, to operate the city until taxes began to be received.

He said it appears at present that excess income should reach about $100,000 and unexpended appropriations total about $75,000.

Cobey Cites

Aging was authorized by the state legislature and an executive director was named to coordinate county committees. Some $25,000 was appropriated.

In addition the state is aiding the aged by making direct contributions to Sylvan Retreat which during the current year totaled about $70,000.

It was suggested that the county group establish a group of volunteers to aid the senior citizens and supplement the work being done by various state, county and city agencies.

In some places this plan is coordinated through a Senior Center. Volunteers are needed, according to Judge Cobey, who said there are not enough professional welfare workers to take care of the aged citizens. These volunteers would be assigned a certain number of persons to be responsible for.

He pointed out that the churches in the county are now conducting a survey and with the use of questionnaires are seeking the names, ages and interests of senior citizens, their capabilities and qualifications.

He suggested that the committee take under consideration adequate housing for the senior citizens and make sure their medical needs are met and give them a feeling of being part of the life of the community.

Last night's meeting began with the installation of the officers and later Judge Cobey said that the potential of the committee's work is tremendous, and the group is "really functioning" and "pioneers in a new field."

City OK's Bid On Water For Housing Units

Decision Deferred On Line Request

The Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association last night was advised by the City of Cumberland that supplying water to two proposed housing developments was a matter for their own decision.

The answer was given after the association specifically asked Water Commissioner G. Ray Light if the City had any objection to its extending its lines to the Bel Air development on the Barton Farm and the Greenbelt development on the Mason farm.

Mr. Light said that if the lines were extended, the city's rules and regulations would apply to the new customers just the same as to Cresaptown.

Decision Deferred

The Cresaptown unit also asked if it could construct another 10 inch line beside the present eight-inch line from the 20-inch line at the Celanese plant.

City officials said the request would have to be refused until City engineering studies are completed, but that it appears now the association will be limited to the present eight-inch line, since the capacity of the city filtration plant is 18 million gallons a day.

The discussion occurred as Mr. Light, Mayor J. Edwin Keech and City Attorney William R. Carscaden briefed officials of the Valley Road Water Company and the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association on the new rules and regulations of the Cumberland Water Department.

Mr. Carscaden pointed out that it is possible new contracts may be prepared for all water companies so the same rules may apply to all.

City officials said it was the concensus that the Cresaptown unit would install a master meter at the end of its lines for the housing developments.

Attend Meeting

All water furnished to Cresaptown, it was decided, will continue to pass through the present master meter and the housing developments would become customers of the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association and not the city.

Attending, in addition to officials of the two water companies, were Edgar Jowett, vice president of the Greenbelt Realty Company of Baltimore, and John Childs, a member of the engineering firm serving the development.

Water Department officials are scheduled to meet today at 7:30 p.m. with representatives of several smaller housing developments.

Commission On Aging Installed

Grim, vice chairman. Judge Cobey discussed operation of county institutions.

Children Are Injured In Accidents

Two Cumberland youngsters were badly injured yesterday when they were struck by motor vehicles in separate accidents.

Vicki Vandegrift, eight, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Vandegrift, 622 Hil Top Drive, was reported in "satisfactory" condition at Memorial Hospital, and Kenneth Winters, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Winters, 146 Independence Street, was in "fair" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital last night.

The Vandegrift girl was struck about 11 a.m. at the intersection of Oldtown Road and "A" Street at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Officer John S. Chaney said the young girl was struck by a small truck operated by Raymond W. Long, of 23 Long Drive. Officer Chaney said the girl apparently ran down "A" Street onto Oldtown Road into the path of the truck.

The Vandegrift girl was admitted to the hospital for X-rays and observation. No charges have been placed pending the outcome of her injuries.

In the other accident, the Winters youth was injured when his bicycle collided with a car on Henderson Avenue at its intersection with Charles Street.

Officer Harold Gibson, who investigated for city police, said the boy was riding his bike south on Henderson Avenue about 3:40 p.m. and turned into the path of a car driven by Dennis F. Broadwater, 133 Humbird Street.

He said the boy, attempting to turn into Charles Street, was thrown upon the hood of the car and cut by the ornament on the front of the hood.

No charges were filed, pending the outcome of the investigation.

The Winters youth sustained a severe laceration of his right forearm.

Miss Weibking got a chance to try out the desk and chair of Gov. Tawes as she posed for photographs. Tawes is in Hawaii for the governors conference.

City May End Year With Less Surplus Funds

State Tax Sources Could Up Estimate

An 11th month report on the condition of the levy prepared by Arthur B. Gibson, city comptroller, indicates that the City of Cumberland will complete the present fiscal year next Friday in good financial shape.

But the report fails to provide any evidence that the surplus on hand as the fiscal year ends June 30 will be as great as the $239,000 which was available to prime the fiscal pump last year.

Mr. Gibson said it "seems it would be very difficult" to meet the surplus figure of last year unless state-shared sources of revenue are much more lucrative than the city estimated.

Collections Good

As the 11th month ended May 31, the City had collected 96 per cent of its total $1,899,930 levy but had spent only 85 per cent of the $1,661,610.50 set aside to provide the various city services.

Funds levied but uncollected totaled $140,850.93, but this was offset by excess collections totaling $67,450.41, and some $50,000 of the uncollected revenues representing licenses and general and special income will, Mr. Gibson reports, be turned over to the city before the fiscal year ends.

One state-shared source of income is already over the top—state gas and auto tax funds by $10,904.87—and Mr. Gibson commented that the city's share of

Discussion Of LaVale Sewage Held

Officials Seek To Find Solution

The Allegany County Board of Health last night met at the Court House with members of the LaVale Sanitary Commission to iron out sewage problems which have been facing that community.

The board decided to make certain that sewers are provided for new homes in the area and to bill the persons constructing the dwellings until such time that the Sanitary Commission is capable of taking over the responsibility.

A resolution will be drawn up and presented to the County Board of Commissioners which last night attended in the capacity of the County Board of Health.

The LaVale group said it plans to take over the responsibility "as soon as possible" and is working toward that goal with a thorough study of the sewage problems of the growing section of the county.

J. Byron Dowling, senior state sanitarian with the County Health Department, pointed out that one person is planning to build a number of homes in the LaVale area and sewer lines are a major problem. It was agreed that the health department will shoulder the responsibility of providing the sewer lines until the sanitary group can take over.

He said the sanitary group has to get into the sewage business. It was pointed out that many places in the LaVale area presented sanitation problems and they must be taken care of.

There was a general discussion on the LaVale problems during the meeting which lasted about an hour and a half.

"Something has to be done," was the comment of Gorman E. Getty, attorney for the LaVale group. He said that a survey completed in November 1959, has been updated to last month.

The comprehensive study points out two means by which the sewage problem might be handled. One would be an interceptor sewer to Cumberland and the other would be a treatment plant in the vicinity of The Narrows.

The construction of the shopping center and new homes in LaVale enters into the picture of the growing sewage problem in the community, it was pointed out.

Cobey Cites Concern For Senior Citizens

Aging Commission Members Installed

The growth of the number of senior citizens in Allegany County and provisions which have been made on their behalf by the State of Maryland, the county, and the City of Cumberland, was reviewed last night by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey. He spoke at the Court House when he installed the 21 members of the Allegany County Commission on Problems of the Aging.

Citing the provisions made for housing, health, and other needs, Judge Cobey pointed out that while the material welfare of the senior citizens seems to have been substantially provided for, it was just as important that individual dignity of the citizens and their interest in the community be maintained, otherwise this increased life expectancy will be meaningless.

In this aspect in particular, he said, the local county commission could play a leading role in arranging a program for the abilities found in senior citizens in all walks of life and providing various means by which abilities could be utilized and life being meaningful.

Sixth In State

He noted that Allegany County ranks sixth in the state, including Baltimore City, in refrence to the population of senior citizens, 65 years of age or over.

Judge Cobey pointed out that 10 cents of the tax rate paid by residents of the county goes toward the maintenance of the County Infirmary (which this year will cost about $95,000 to operate); the County Home, (about $48,000); and Sylvan Retreat (which will cost about $30,000 to maintain this year.) This was disclosed by county officials.

It was pointed out that Allegany County is the only county in the nation which has three such institutions for older citizens.

The City of Cumberland, the judge said, is aware of the growing population of senior citizens. The Recreation Department is sponsoring the Senior Citizens Club and provides a program of activities for the older citizens of the city.

About three years ago some members of the Cumberland Rotary Club began research work toward compiling an informal history of the service club which held its initial meeting here on March 11, 1921.

"The First Forty," an attractive 60-page booklet, edited by F. Perry Smith Jr., will be presented to members and guests of the organization this evening at the Cumberland Country Club during the Ladies Night program which will mark the service club's 40th anniversary.

Theodore P. Foote, president of the club, said that many hours, evenings, phone calls, discussions, word counting, editing and arranging by members of the board were necessary in compiling the book, which is enriched with a bit of history of the City of Cumberland.

In his foreword Mr. Smith points out that from the first meeting of the club "a history unfolds representing membership activity in the four avenues of Rotary Service. These paths crisscross, influenced by community, economic, national, and international conditions.

"Club activity surges and withdraws as the waves on the shore but the underlying current consistently maintains a flow of Rotary principles and ideas," he added.

In the opening pages of the book there is reproduced a letter from Chesley R. Perry, secretary-general, which was addressed to J. Milton Patterson, first president of the service club.

The date of the letter is April 23, 1921. The certificate of membership was enclosed in the letter which stated that "you may be sure that I join with President Snedecor and the other International officers in congratulations and felicitations to you and your club upon the delivery of this certificate."

On March 8, 1921 George Balhke of the Baltimore Rotary Club and Richard Sapinall, district governor from Buchannon W.Va., who made a comprehensive survey of Rotary classifications for the City of Cumberland, met with 25 representative men at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Three days later these men, and 10 additional, set up a provisional Rotary Club of Cumberland and applied for its charter to be numbered 893 of the Sixth District of International Rotary Clubs.

Officers elected included Mr. Patterson as president; Thomas B. Finan, vice president; Frank H. Ankeney, secretary; and George Henderson, treasurer. Directors named included Webster Edwards, H. D. Billmeyer, I. T. Holland, Tasker G. Lowndes, Leslie L. Helmer and E. F. Reich. By special permission from the International Association 35 instead of the usual 25 names were submitted as charter members.

During the winter of 1922 the club sponsored a youth survey, under the professional tutelage of Frank Gamble, which was the forerunner of many years devoted to the youth of Cumberland through such outlets as the YMCA, the Boy and Girl Scouts, Little League Baseball and other similar organizations.

During the year 1925-26 when Charles S. Catherman was president of the service club, the Rotary sparked a joint undertaking with Kiwanis and the Chamber of Commerce to investigate the feasibility of a Community Chest program. The club donated $200 to help defray the expenses of an expert's survey, all of which re-
